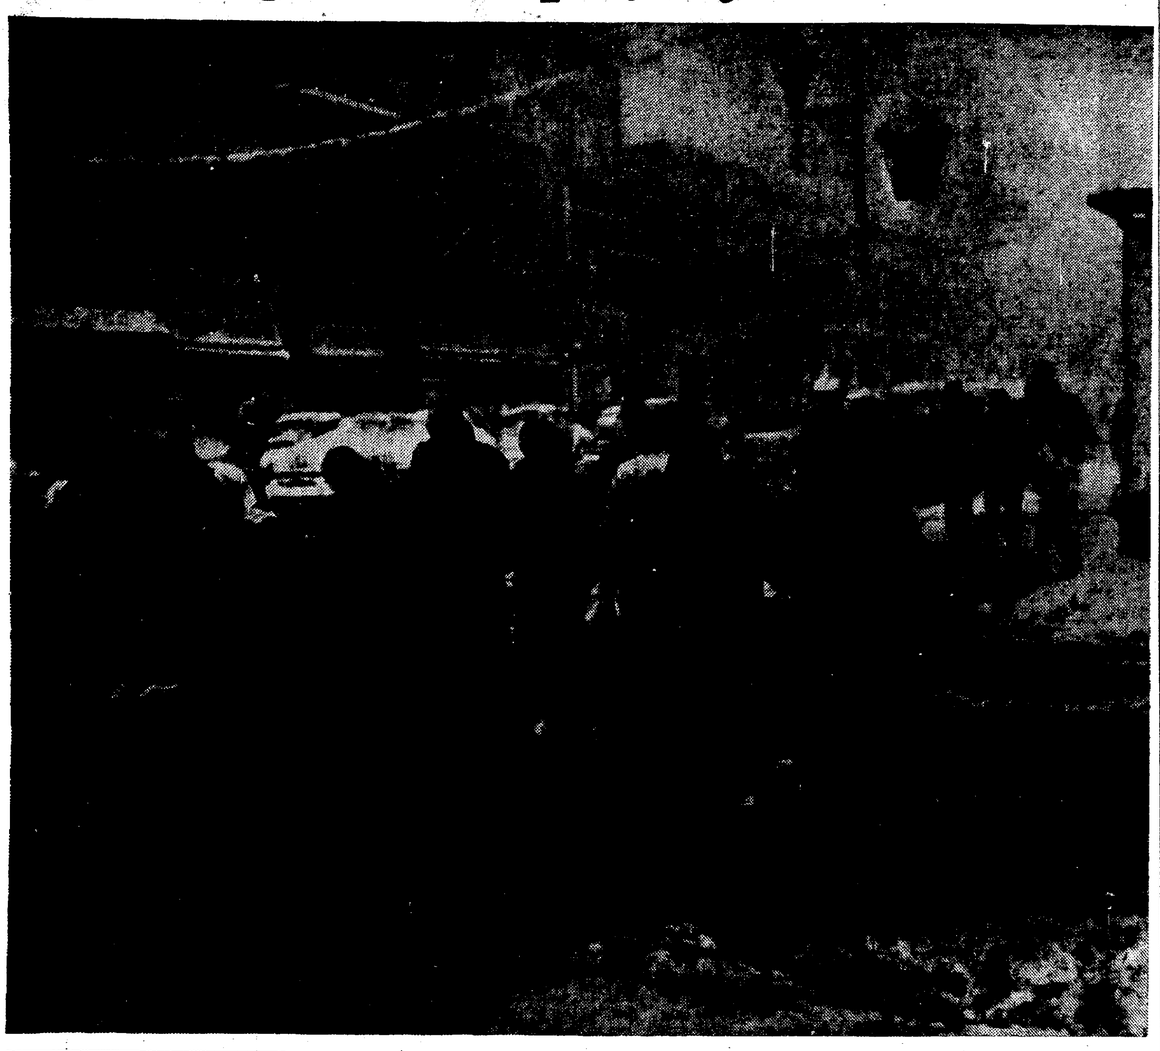
City Caught in Grip of Icy Winter Blast



CHRISTMAS SHOPPERS BRAVE BITING WIND and swirling snow to slosh across a downtown Marion street in the midst of the heaviest snow storm this season. This scene, taken at the Prospect St. crossing on W. Center St., shows the hard going faced by pedestrians and motorists in yesterday's four-inch snowfall. A rash of traffic accidents and power and telephone interruptions resulted from the storm.

French Furious at Dulles' Warning To Ratify Army Plans or Face Loss of Aid

U.S. Scolding Jolts NATO Paris Parley

Secretary's Demand For Action on Defense Signals 'Tough' Policy

PARIS (AP)—The NATO Council of Ministers heard more discussion today of Europe's political situation amid a storm of protest aroused by U. S. Secretary of State Dulles' warning that France must ratify the European army pact soon or face a U. S. "reappraisal" of its European policies.

French officials were reported furious over Dulles' blunt remarks, which implied that any reappraisal might involve a shift of U. S. troops and aid from the European continent. Paris newspapers termed his statement a "brutal ultimatum."

British Join Protest

In London, British newspapers of varying political shades also sharply criticized the remarks as "folly", and "best left unsaid."

Most officials were guarded or refused comment on Dulles' declaration, though Italian Premier Giuseppe Pella termed it "a very courageous statement." Dutch Foreign Minister J. W. Beyen called it "very important." British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden declined to comment.

"I have nothing at all to say." snapped French Foreign Minister George Bidault.

Dulles spoke yesterday to a news conference after addressing the opening meeting of the NATO Council gathering. Informants said he made the same points to the council.

In the strongest language yet heard at an NATO meeting, the secretary of state warned:

1. Unless the European Defense Community Treaty is ratified quickly, the United States will have to "re-study" how to implement its obligations to NATO, and the disposition of U. S. troops "would, of course, be a factor in the agonizing reappraisal."

2. If the Western nations, "especially France and Germany," decide to commit suicide by failing to unite, "they may have to commit it alone."

Traditional Fear

Dulles' threats were aimed mainly at the French, who first proposed the EDC and then turned sour on the idea. They fear the pact, which would bring 12 West German divisions into a six-nation European army would give German troops a new chance to invade France.

Yet many French leaders agree a European army including West Germans is necessary to defend Western Europe against Soviet attack.

Bidault reported on the Dulles statement at a meeting of the French Cabinet. There was no indication, however, of the ministers'

NIXON REPORTS TO EISENHOWER. Vice President Richard Nixon and his wife, Patricia, are greeted warmly by President Eisenhower (right) at the White House after their return from a 10-week, 45,000-mile tour of the Middle and Far East. Nixon told the President that, despite all Communist inroads, Asia holds "tremendous good will and friendship for America." He will make a detailed report to President Eisenhower on possible future American policy in the Far East.

Council Tables Bills Granting Pay Increases

Measures, Discussed In Private, Will Be Given Further Study

Two ordinances providing pay raises for certain elected city officials including councilmen, were tabled by City Council last night following a 15-minute closed session when the measures were discussed in private.

Louis B. Conkle, Fourth Ward, and a member of the finance, ways and means committee, called for the recess and later reported it was decided to consider the pay raises in five separate ordinances rather than two.

Robert G. Haldeman, councilman-at-large, reported discussion in the closed meeting centered around whether a general pay raise is necessary at this time. He reported Council feels it must avoid any pay raises, particularly for itself, if possible.

Action Deferred

Both Haldeman and Conkle reported there was some disagreement as to the amounts of the raises for the various elected officials concerned and it was decided to hold off action until the matter may be more thoroughly investigated.

Those city offices which would be affected by the proposed increases include those of the mayor, city solicitor, treasurer, council clerk, and 10 Council members including Council president.

Finance Committee Chairman Don Quaintance, Fifth Ward, said three of the proposed increases "appear justified" and predicted they would be approved by Council. These are: mayor, raised from $4,000 a year to $4,500; city solicitor, $3,600 a year to $4,000, and council clerk from $2,400 to $2,700 a year.

Amounts Controversial

Quaintance reported that amounts of the raises proposed for councilmen and for the city treasurer are controversial. There has been no decision what, if any, raises will be granted these offices, he said. He said he is personally opposed to any increase for councilmen because he sees no justification for such an increase.

Phone Service Disrupted

Accidents, Power Break Follow Four-Inch Snow

A rash of accidents, power failure and telephone interruptions followed the heavy snowfall in Marion yesterday.

Icy streets and highways created hazardous driving conditions as nearly four inches of snow fell throughout the area.

The wintry weather which hit Marion covered the state and wide areas of the eastern third of the nation. Snow or rain fell from Lake Michigan to the east coast with heavy falls of snow general throughout the Ohio Valley.

THE FORECAST for tonight is considerable cloudiness and colder with light snow likely, and Wednesday is to be mostly cloudy and continued cold with snow flurries.

Power failure throughout the entire city for a period of about 10 minutes yesterday afternoon resulted when a car struck a power pole. Phone service was disrupted when, in another automobile accident, a utility pole was broken off. Other phone interruptions were caused when tree limbs, coated with ice and snow, broke off and fell across lines.

All city and county schools were in session today despite the heavy snowfall. Pupils attending Meeker School were dismissed yesterday afternoon when the school became cold after the power failure stopped operation of the school heating plant. Classes resumed this morning.

CITY, COUNTY and state highway crews were busy all day yesterday and throughout the night attempting to clear the streets and roads.

An official at the State Highway Department garage said this morning roads outside the city were in "pretty good condition" with the exception of certain spots.

He said the wind had been blowing snow back onto the highways north of the city, making it necessary to maintain plowing by three crews throughout the night.

If the wind stops, he said, it would be possible to have all ice and snow off the roads in a matter of two or three hours. Otherwise, he expects the men will continue at their task even longer.

ROUTES 23, 4, AND 98 north of the city were reported slippery in spots even though men have been salting all highways in the area since 6 a.m. Monday.

Most of the crews at the garage worked all night trying to make the roads safe for motorists. Those not working last night came in early this morning to continue the job.

Three graders and 23 workmen from the Marion City Service Department worked from 9 last night until 2:30 this morning to get the snow off streets in the business district.

Work began after the stores closed and heavy traffic let up, Safety-Service Director Ralph E. Forrest reported this morning.

Street crews were also out this morning cleaning the snow and ice off city streets.

Forrest said that so far the snow

Schools in City Close Friday For Two Weeks

Marion public and parochial schools will dismiss Friday for the annual two-week Christmas vacation. Classes are scheduled to resume Monday, Jan. 4.

Schools in the county will close next week and reopen on Jan. 4. Students at Caledonia, LaRue and Waldo will start their Christmas recess Dec. 23 while Claridon, Grand Prairie, Meeker, Morral, Martel, and Pleasant will let out Dec. 24.

Green Camp, Prospect and New Bloomington are still undecided about dismissal dates.

St. Mary School will be dismissed Friday at 3 p.m. and all public schools will close at 2:30 p.m. Friday.

At Harding High School, a traditional Christmas program has been planned for the assembly period on Friday, last school day of 1953. The high school choir, under the direction of L. G. Jones, will present a program of Christmas carols and hymns. The Christmas Story will be told by Delores Cosey, a senior, with the choir furnishing a background of "Silent Night."

Presentations will include "Whence Those Sounds Symphonious," "Lullaby on Christmas Eve," "Come Shepherds, Come," "Go Tell It on the Mountain," "Let Carols Ring," "Shum Shi," "Carol of the Bells," "The Shepherd's Story," and "God Rest Ye Merry Gentlemen," with John Harbin, Paul Foster, Jean Bibbee and Evelyn Price, seniors, and Sally Schneider, junior, as soloists. Accompanists will be Carolyn Jones and Sally Schneider.

Charter Group Lists Duties of City Manager

Qualifications, Powers Of Top Local Official Set Up by Commission

Qualifications, requirements, powers, and duties of a city manager were tentatively decided at Monday night's meeting of the Marion City Charter Commission at the YMCA.

This action follows last week's tentative approval of the city manager form of government as the best type for Marion. The commission's recommendations, which will be placed before the voters next fall for their approval, also include a nine-member Council similar to the present City Council, partisan balloting, and four year terms for city officials.

Under the direction of the assistant chairman, Dr. Frederick Merchant, the group last night decided a manager would have to have some accepted ability, either through school training, or by practical experience.

The manager would be appointed for an indefinite term, which would result in his staying in office if he did a competent job, or in being removed at any time were he unsuited for the position.

A public hearing will be granted to a city manager in case of dismissal by council. Members felt this was necessary to provide the public with better insight into the reasons for the dismissal. It would also provide for a check upon the action of council.

No prior residence in the city or state shall be required as a quali-

Rap Training Plan

Congressmen Shy Away From Joint UMT-Draft

WASHINGTON (AP) — Most members of Congress who expressed themselves today on a presidential commissions recommendation for a military manpower policy recoiled from its central idea—universal military training for youths not drafted.

The National Security Training Commission said yesterday in a special report to President Eisenhower that UMT could be put into effect by January 1955, or earlier, operating simultaneously with the draft. The plan would require congressional approval.

The commission proposed a lottery to determine whether a youth would get six months training or be required to serve two years as a draftee.

The group said the program, while not achieving absolute equality, at least would avoid what it called the present unfair situation in which veterans are the only reservists available to be called up in a sudden war emergency.

Under the proposed UMT program, the trainees would be called ahead of veterans.

The commission contended its program also might save money by permitting a reduction in the regular military forces, and might help deter war by setting up a steady program of long-term preparedness.

However, the arguments apparetly made little impression on most members of Congress available in Washington for comment.

House Speaker Joseph W. Martin Jr. said flatly, "I don't think the program would have much chance." He added that "Congress has already said the draft and UMT should not operate concurrently"

Rep. Short (R-Mo), chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, which would have to act on a UMT bill, declared, "I am opposed to UMT. It won't work.

Reporting on World Trip

Nixon Prepares To Brief Security Council on Tour

WASHINGTON (AP)—Vice President Nixon has a briefcase full of problems, all studied at first hand, to spread before the National Security Council, perhaps today.

They deal with situations he examined in 70 days of travel and conversation with heads of government and plain citizens in Asia, the Middle East and the Pacific. These range from Australian unhappiness over some U.S. trade policies to the risks that a truce in Indochina would bring.

Has First Call

The council, composed of top officials of the executive department responsible for national policy at the highest level, has first call on Nixon's report on the trip that ended yesterday. Later this week and next he meets with congressional leaders and State Department officials.

Nixon said President Eisenhower would decide whether there is to be a radio-TV report to the nation. He had a preliminary talk with the president yesterday.

By regions, here are some of the problems on which Nixon is prepared to report to the National Security Council:

1. South Pacific—Australia and New Zealand, both strongly pro-American, are worried by what they call "discriminatory" trade restrictions against their wool and dairy products. Nixon promised to report their protests, with the reminder that domestic American politics had to be considered.

Voice Strong Opposition

At the same time, these two countries voiced strong opposition to the rearmament of Japan, a basic point in America's defense program for the rest of Asia.

2. Far East—Nixon was told that Japan, bursting with a temporary economic boom, is about to reassert its leadership over Asia. Economically, however, the Japanese face the problem of developing greater new markets, to offset their dependence upon the areas now under Communist control.

One problem is to stimulate more rapid Japanese rearmament. Another is to settle a growing and serious dispute over fishing rights and other isues between Korea and Japan. A third is to settle the status of Okinawa, which Japan wants back, but which American officials say is vital for the long-range aerial defense of the United States.

Basic Blueprint Needed

At the same time a basic blueprint is needed for Korea, if the present truce continues.

3. Southeast Asia — The major problem is a growing French effort to settle a seven years war with the Communist-led Vietminh forces through a negotiated truce, a movement spurred by the armistice in Korea. American officials on the spot say a truce now would open all of Indochina to the undisputed political influence of Moscow-trained Ho Chi Minh, thereby jeopardizing all of rich Southeast Asia. All the pathways to this vital region are open to direct Chinese military power.

4. South Asia—The United States faces a basic decision in determining how to deal with India's Prime Minister Nehru, prime spokesman for the neutralism prevalent in this area.

Military aid to neighboring Pakistan, now being discussed, means risking Nehru's opposition.

5. Middle East—The major military weakness in this strategic stretch of the world is Iran. Aside from its pressing economic and political problems, this key country is difficult to defend, without a far greater military investment than is now being made.

Boy Has Only One Old Quilt, Needs Bedding

This is one of a series describing families and individuals listed with "Give A Christmas" clearinghouse sponsored by the Junior Service Guild at the Salvation Army. Any organization or individual wishing to contribute may obtain the name of a needy family by calling the clearinghouse secretary at 3-2415 before Dec. 24.

With the arrival of cold wintry days, the demand for bedding increases.

"Give A Christmas" aid in the form of blankets could be used by a boy who has just received a good used bed, but has only a thin spread and an old quilt on it.

The boy's father has deserted the family and his mother worked until her health failed. She is very concerned about the situation and doesn't know what to do during the winter months since she has no money to purchase bedding.

Another case which has come to the Guild's attention is that of a blind man who lives alone in one room. There are few persons who care about his needs and consequently his cot has only a few worn quilts and one sheet. He would be thankful for and could use any kind of bedding.

North American Plant Workers Okay Contract

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Columbus Local 927 UAW-CIO today ratified by an overwhelming margin the contract with North American Aviation, Inc., negotiated in California.

The vote means the immediate end of an eight-week strike against the Columbus Sabre jet plant which affected 12,500 production workers.

The ratification came on a standing vote.

Sen. McCarthy Blasts Harvard During Probe

University Accused Of Being Sanctuary For Accused Commies

NEW YORK (AP)—Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis), in a new blast at Harvard University, says the college apparently is a sanctuary "for Fifth Amendment cases.'

President Nathan M. Pusey of Harvard said in Cambridge, Mass., last night that he had no comment. He has said previously there are no Communists on the Harvard faculty and that use of the Fifth Amendment is not "a confession of guilt."

The senator's slap at the university came yesterday during hearings here by the Senate permanent investigations subcommittee, which he heads.

Professor Summoned

Last night Wendell H. Furry, a Harvard professor, said at his home in Blemont, Mass., that he has been called to appear before the subcommittee tomorrow.

McCarthy is holding public hearings into alleged Communist espionage at Ft. Monmouth, N. J., the Army Signal Corps headquarters of Americas top secret radar defense.

The senator's comment on Harvard came as he wound up questioning of the last of four witnesses called yesterday in the Ft. Monmouth probe.

Mrs. Sylvia Berke, a Bronx public school clerk, was summoned to testify about a job she held at Ft. Monmouth between 1942 and 1943.

Denies Being Red

Mrs. Berke denied she was a Communist at that time or last September when she testified at a closed hearing. However, she refused to say whether she ever had been a Communist, citing the Fifth Amendment.

The amendment is a guarantee to witnesses against possible self-incrimination.

McCarthy suggested that Mrs. Berke, if the Board of Education fires her, "might apply for a job over at Harvard."

"It seems to be a sanctuary over there for Fifth Amendment cases," said McCarthy. "You can get a letter of recommendation from your Communist cell and get a job from Mr. Pusey."

Presidents Drill for First Buckeye League Cage Test

After having their four-game victory streak broken by Columbus West last weekend, Harding cagers will try to get back in the win column Friday night when they get their first taste of Buckeye League action against Bowling Green.

Bowling Green will be a good team to test Harding's strength. With the exception of one man, the Bobcat squad is the same one that went to the regional tourney last year.

Bowling Green has a 2-1 record. The Bobcats have registered wins over Toledo Clay 54-51 and Toledo Whitmer 57-50 while bowing only to Bellevue 62-55.

Bowling Green's probable starting lineup finds its two high scorers, Jerry Buckles and Phil Ward, in the forward slots. Buckles, 6-0, is the team's top point-maker with 43, while Ward, 6-2, ranks second with 39.

Jim Graham, 6-3, will probably go at center with Jim Rice, 5-9, at one of the guards. The other guard position will go to either Jack Whittaker, 5-8, or sophomore Joe Soffios, 5-7.

Whittaker has started every game so far, but Soffios has seen most of the action and has attracted a lot of attention by pouring in 35 points to rank third in scoring.

A seventh man, junior Tom Binkley, 6-1, is also slated to put in a lot of playing time.

Bowling Green has been using a semi-fast-breaking offense, but reports are that Coach Wells Gorman will slow down his attack against Harding. He fells that his boys aren't fast enough to match the fast-breaking Prexies.

The Bobcats will throw up a straight zone defense against Harding.

Last season the two teams split in their two encounters. Bowling Green won the first game 58-49 with Harding taking the return match 53-36.

Harding's lineup will probably be the one that has seen most of the action this season: Bob Hamor, 5-11, and Doug Bibler, 5-7, at the forwards; Dave Schnelker, 6-2, at center; and Ron Conroy, 5-8½, and Don Smith, 5-7, in the guard slots.

The Prexies racked up wins over Bexley 61-47, Galion 72-38, Willard 96-35 and Columbus Acquinas 66-57 before getting knocked off by Columbus West 74-71.

Friday night's game at the new Harding gym will be the first league action for both teams.

In the reserve tilt, the Vice Prexies will also be out to start winning again after having a four-game streak broken by West last Friday. The Bowling Green jayvees have won two straight after dropping their opener to Toledo Clay.

Rams Seek Second Cage Victory, Meet Madison Shooters

UPPER SANDUSKY, O.,—Seeking their second win, the Upper Mansfield Madison basketeers High Rams will entertain the here Friday night. The Rams won their opener with Ada on the home floor and they lost to Kenton and Crestline in road games. The 57-52 victory for Crestline was not a Northern Ohio League game. The Upper-Crestline NOL contest will be played here Jan. 22, one week after the Rams open the league season with Bellevue.

Wyandot County League games Friday night will feature Sycamore at McCutchenville, matching the unbeaten league leaders, Wharton at Harpster and Marseilles at Nevada. Salem will entertain Harding-Northern Saturday night.

McCutchenville, Sycamore and Salem were Wyco League winners last week. McCutchenville's Big Red tamed the Wharton Green Dragons at Wharton 66-36. The Sycamore Wildcats took visiting Nevada 81-66 and Salem won over visiting Harpster 54-49.

Jim Steiger of Nevada led the scoring with 26 points. Sycamore and McCutchenville are leading the league with five games won and none lost.

HOT SHOES

NEW YORK (AP) — Mal Whitfield, former Ohio State track star now living in Los Rngeles, had "hot shoes" in 1953. He set six new AAU records on the cinder paths in this country and abroad. Among the marks set by the 800 meters Olympic champion were 1:49.2 for 800 yards at Helsinki, Finland and 2:20.8 for 1,000 meters at Eskilstuna, Sweden.

The European starling was first introduced into the Americas in the 1890s.

Meeting Called To Set Future Of AAA League

NEW YORK (AP)—George Trautman, president of the minor leagues, has called a meeting Thursday in Washington to discuss the future of the International League.

He has asked Frank Shaughnessy, president of the Triple A league, and Harry Seibold of Richmond to attend.

Trautman said last night in Columbus he wanted to "find out what all the shouting is about."

He added that there had been a lot of talk about what different teams wanted but neither the International League nor the would-be members seem to know "what's what."

Bobby Maduro, owner of the Havana Cubans baseball franchise, who has been seeking a franchise in the International League said yesterday he understood the league has two other cities from which to draw one team if Richmond (Piedmont League) should not go in.

"That would seem to mean Havana is in," he added.

YMCA Cage Play Delayed; First Tilts Slated Wednesday

The opening of play in the YMCA basketball leagues, originally scheduled for tonight, has been postponed. The three games set for tonight will be played as the final round of play in the season.

Vern Miller, athletic director for the Y, said the games had been cancelled because of the lack of basketball officials. Most officials in this area are working high school games tonight.

Scheduled for play tonight were games between Marion AC and Alloy, Marion Power Shovel and Bird-McGinnie and Marion Industries and GI Post.

League play will get under way Wednesday night with three games on tap. Waldo will meet UAW-CIO in the opener at 7 p.m. with Green Camp taking on Raymond in the middle game at 8. The 9 p.m. finale will send Ashley against McMillen Feed.

Miller said the date for the finals in the Y Invitational Tourney between Meyers Pumps of Ashland and the Pythian Drugs of Columbus still had not been set.

FAYETTEVILLE, N. C. (AP) — With an assist by a policeman, George Millican of Fayetteville has come up with a neat hunting feat. Millican hit a 6-point buck deer with his car. Thinking the animal dead, Millican put him in the car trunk. Later, the deer began kicking and Milllican quickly drove to the Fayetteville police station where a policeman dispatched the deer.

Barons Attempt To Climb Into League Lead Tonight

CINCINNATI (AP)—On the strength of its two victories and one tie, Johnstown eased into the lead of the International Hockey League by a single point.

Second-place Cincinnati saw action only once last week, a 4-2 setback at the hands of the Marion Barons. The Mohawks appear in three of the league's 12 contests this week.

Johnstown plays third-place Marion on the Pennsylvania ice tonight. The Barons have won their last three games. Their victory over Cincinnati on the Mohawk ice—the second club to turn the trick this season—shows they can play well on foreign ice.

The nine-club league is so tightly packed that if Marion wins they jump to a first-place tie.

Grand Rapids moved up to fourth from fifth place. The Rockets won two and lost two in their last appearances.

Troy, Toledo and Fort Wayne are scrambled for fifth with 26 points each, a mere six points or three wins from Johnstown.

The Indiana club after losing three straight two weeks ago, rallied with three straight victories last week.

Louisville went down to seventh with one win, two losses and one tie.

The longtime cellar - dwellers, Milwaukee, played three and lost three.

The league met in Troy and decided on playoff procedure with the top seven teams participating. The confused officials set the playoff date for March 16, although the regular season doesn't end until March 19.

Marion YMCA Plans Forming Of Swim Team

The YMCA Physical Department announced today the forming of a competitive swimming team for junior and senior high school boys between the ages of 14 and 17.

Team try-outs for free style, back stroke, distance events and diving will be held Saturday afternoon at 2. The swimming team will be coached by Warren Foster, teacher of physical education in the Marion Public School system. Doctor Robert Logsdon, Doctor Hugh Gregg and Vern Miller. The swimming team will train during the next three weeks for meets against YMCA's from Tiffin, Lima, Columbus, Van Wert, Mansfield, Newark and Springfield.

Any YMCA member from Marion or Marion County between the ages of 14 and 17 is eligible to try out for the team. Boys interested should appear at the YMCA pool on Saturday afternoon for orientation and time trials. A policy of no cuts will be followed in order to train swimmers and maintain interest in competitive swimming in the years ahead.

Firm in Morrow County Announces Scholarship Plan

MT. GILEAD—A plan for awarding scholarships to outstanding high school seniors was announced today by the Morrow Rural Electric Co-op at Mt. Gilead.

The scholarships are to be awarded on the basis of leadership activities and scholastic achievement and will be available to two outstanding high school seniors from the area served by the cooperative.

Each participating school will be asked to nominate one boy and one girl.

A committee of judges will then select two scholarship recipients from the students nominated by the participating schools. Each of the two winners will be awarded a $200 scholarship upon their entrance in college. The two local winners will also be scored against scholarship winners from other electric coops in Ohio, and two statewide winners, one boy and one girl, will each receive ad additional $500 scholarship.

The scholarship program is being offered to the following schools: Iberia, Johnsville, Edison, Chesterville, Mt. Gilead, Cardington, Marengo, Sparta, Lexington, Elm Valley and Fredericktown. All seniors nominated will receive a plaque in recognition of their leadership and scholastic achievements.

Wilkinson and Munn Eyed As Successor to Fesler

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Minnesota fondly eyed a pair of famous old grads to fill its head football coaching job today and hoped against harsh facts the home school lure would be strong enough to bring one of them back.

But odds were against either Bud Wilkinson of Oklahoma or Biggie Munn of Michigan State returning to Minnesota, where they starred as players.

Wilkinson and Munn at least were a starting point in speculation on a successor to Wes Fesler, who resigned yesterday to take an executive position with radio station WDGY in Minneapolis.

Both Wilkinson and Munn have reached pinnacles at their respective schools. Wilkinson rejected the Minnesota job when Bernie Bierman resigned in 1950 and said "the situation at Oklahoma is the same as it was three years ago." Eight years remain on his 10-year contract.

Munn's main interest right now centers on the Michigan State athletic directorship. He conferred with Michigan State President Dr. John Hannah Friday on his future at MSC but it was understood then Munn had decided to stay with State.

Ralph Young, the current Spartan athletic director, will reach retirement age in 1955.

Those stern realities left these other apparent possibilities for the post which Fesler leaves for the security of private business:

John Roning, a former assistant coach at Minnesota who this year won eight games and lost three at Utah. Roning said he might be interested in the Minnesota job but he added: "I don't know just how I would react to an offer."

Butch Nash, now end coach and a recent applicant for the University of Kansas head coach's position.

Bierman, who elevated Minnesota to football greatness, then resigned after a string of disappointments in the post-war period.

Milt Bruhn, Wisconsin line coach, who was considered for the job three years ago.

Others mentioned include Lyal Clark and Dick Fisher, two of Fesler's assistants.

Ike Armstrong, Minnesota athletic director, said a decision may not be reached until the NCAA meetings in Cincinnati Jan. 6-8.

CHARDON, Ohio (AP) — Geauga County, known for its snow and maple sugar, had from 8 to 10 inches of snow in spots today.

Highway workers reported the most snow along Ohio 422 which runs from Cleveland to Youngstown. This county seat had 7 inches. It's still snowing.

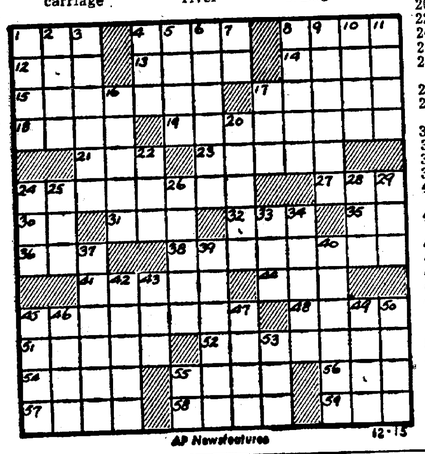
Solution of Yesterday's Puzzle



Missions Resume Education Work on Island of Formosa

TAICHUNG, Formosa (UP)—The patient missionaries who saw their work destroyed when the Communists engulfed China are starting from scratch here with new determination.

In the green, windswept fileds near the sea, they are slowly beginning to build Tunghai University, the first Christian college started in Formosa since Chiang Kai-shek moved his Nationalist government from the mainland.

The United Board for Christian Colleges in China is sponsoring the new university, just as it backed 13 on the China mainland before they were seized by the Communists.

So far, the new school is nothing more than a cleared patch of brown earth in a hillside cane field. But the missionaries already have plans for several buildings and enough money — mostly from Americans and from Chinese in other countries—to make a modest start.

The frankly admit they need a lot more. They are hoping for continued backing from American members of the dozen or so big Christian churches which back the United Board.

Vice President Richard M. Nixon dedicated the site on Armistice Day and broke the first ground with a crude garden hoe.

Dr. Thomas W. Graham, white-haired missionary representing the United Board, voiced the hopes of the little crowd on the hillside that Tunghai could carry on the work that the universities in China had to drop.

One of the best known of the China schools was Yenching University. Its main developer and long-time president was Dr. J. Leighton Stuart, retired U. S. ambassador to China, who spent most of his life there as an educator.

Many of Stuart's old friends and fellow missionaries are among those working to get Tunghai started.

The missionaries explained that promising students on Formosa are clamoring by the thousands for a chance to go to college. The island's own college facilities are relatively small. As one of the missionaries, a Presbyterian, put it: "We still hope to go back to China and pick up where we left off. But there's a tremendous job to be done here. We felt we had to make a start."

Kitty Hawk Celebration

Airlines, Plane Industry Pay Respects to Wrights

KITTY HAWK, N. C. (AP)—The airlines and the aircraft industries paid their respects to Orville and Wilbur Wright today at the very spot where the brothers launched the first successful airplane 50 years ago

"We recognize," said one airplane manufacturer's representative, "that these two bachelors, Orville and Wilbur Wright, were the fathers of us all. From their brainchild, the Kitty Hawk flyer, sprang our livelihood—and a new way of life for mankind."

Retired Adm. Dewitt C. Ramsey, president of the Aircraft Industries Assn., was to be the leading representative of the manufacturers at "Industry Day, the second chapter of the four-day 50th anniversary celebration.

Ramsey and Edward O. Rodgers, assistant to the president of the Air Transport Assn., brought wreaths to place at the granite monument to the Wright brothers, high on the sand dune called Kill Devil Hill.

The program also called for:

1. Memorial flights by 12 single-engine L19 airplanes of the Civil Air Patrol, from Cap Wings in North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Maryland, Ohio and the District of Columbia.

2. The ceremonial raising of three flags—the American flag, the United Nations banner and the little-known "International Goodwill Flag"—which have just completed a six-day airlines journey around the world.

3. Demonstrations of modern jet-plane flying, by 16 F84 Thunderjets of the Georgia Air National Guard and 13 McDonnell Banshees of Marine Air Group 24 at Cherry Point, N. C.

4. A T33 jet flight from Dayton, home of the Wright brothers, bearing a wreath to be deposited at the Wright monument.

Union Decision Due on Pact To End Strike

Plants in Columbus, Los Angeles Vote on North American Offer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Striking North American Aviation, Inc., employes in Fresno, Calif., have ratified a union-management agreement providing a 4 per cent wage increase. Workers at plant here and in Columbus, Ohio, ballot today.

The agreement was reached by negotiators here early yesterday, presaging an early resumption of warplane production. Some 33,000 workers in the three plants left their jobs Oct. 23.

The agreement between North American and the CIO United Auto Workers came a few hours after new contracts had been ratified by 35,000 employes at Lockheed Aircraft Corp., and Douglas Aircraft's Santa Monica plant. Employes of these companies did not strike.

The North American vote at the Fresno plant last night was 347 to 38 in favor of the agreement, a company spokesman said.

Raises at North American plants will range from 8 to 20 cents an hour, from a previous pay rate spread of $1.42 to $2.32 hourly. Douglas and Lockheed contracts provided over-all increases of 6 cents an hour, including a higher cost of living allowance. At Lockheed previous pay rates ranged from $1.40 to $2.41, and at Douglas from $1.39 to $2.40.

The North American agreement, however, is dissimilar in a number of provisions. These, the company spokesman said, include:

Only workers who are members of the union or who voluntarily join it will be required to maintain union membership. Workers who have resigned, nonunion employes and persons hired in the future will not be required to join the union.

This provision replaces the modified union shop clause in the previous contract, which required all employes in the union to pay union dues in order to keep their jobs and also required all new employes to join.

Increased group insurance at no added cost, three weeks vacation with pay for workers with 15 years or more service and guaranteed paid holidays are also provided in the new pact.

Pay increases, said North American, will cost over 14 million dollars annually.

The vote on ratification here is set for 1 p. m., EST today, and at Columbus for 10 a. m.

Funds From Sale of 'War Cry' Will Be Used To Aid the Needy

Contributions from the annual distribution of the Christmas issue of the War Cry, Salvation Army publication, will be used this year, as in former years, to make Christmas a happy one for the less fortunate ones in the community.

Distributed with the War Cry were envelopes bearing the name of The Salvation Army and announcing that any amount over the cost of publishing the magazine (20 cents) will go to support the Christmas Community Work of the Salvation Army.

Later a Salvation Army Worker, in uniform and having bona fide credentials, called for the envelopes.

Where contributors were not at home, a printed card was left explaining that because of a shortage of help, no return call could be made and requesting the donor to place their gift in the envelope and mail it to the Army headquarters at 141 N. Prospect St., P. O. Box 383.

It is not too late to mail the contributions. These will be most appreciated as there are many calls for the Christmas help this year, Captain Mary Nisiewicz states.

Willoughby Again To Honor Memory Of Its 'Girl in Blue'

WILLOUGHBY, Ohio (AP) — Willoughbys lonely "Girl in Blue" will be remembered by a cemetery visit this Christmas Eve, just as she has been for 20 years.

On Dec. 24, 1933, the girl who was never identified threw herself in front of an express train. This year as they have every year since townspeople will spread flowers on her grave.

Wearing a dark blue topcoat, a navy blue skirt a light blue sweater and a dark blue turban hat, the girl got off a bus from Cleveland that depression year and took a room at the home of Mrs. Mary Judd.

Later she went to the door, and wished Mrs. Judd a "Merry Christmas." Those were the last words anybody reported hearing her say. Then she turned to the tracks, along sidewalks partially lighted by Christmas tree lights, and jumped in front of the train.

Residents, failing to learn her identity despite widespread reports of the tragedy, buried her and marked the grave with a three-foot granite headstone. It read:

"In memory of the girl in blue, killed by train, unknown but not forgotten, Dec. 24, 1933."

Sister of POW Going to Tokyo

Louisiana Girl Hopes To Talk With Brother

TOKYO (AP) — The sister of an American war prisoner who chose communism prepared today to fly to Tokyo, where the mother of another unrepatriated American waited on the slim chance that she would get to see her son.

Myrtle Elaine Wilson of Urania, La., sent a radio message saying she was coming to Japan in hopes of seeing her brother, Cpl. Aaron Wilson, one of 22 Americans who stayed with the Communists.

The message was addressed to Mrs. Portia Howe of Alden, Minn., who flew here last week hoping to see and persuade her son, Pfc. Richard Tenneson, to come home.

There was no sign that the U. S. Defense Department has modified its ban on trips to Korea by relatives of the unrepatriated American prisoners.

Miss Wilson asked Mrs. Howe to send the following message to her brother:

"Hi Aaron, I'm coming to Japan in hopes that I can see you. I'll send you another message when I get in Japan. Please ask permission to see me. Mom and Dad are not able to make the trip. Both are in bad health. Please do as I say just once as I want to see you again. I'm praying for you.

(Signed) "Myrtle Elaine."

Miss Wilson did not say when she expected to arrive.

Mrs. Howe said tonight, "I have decided to stay in Tokyo until the last possible chance for my son to come home has gone." She added however she has given up hope of going to Korea.

Father Holds 2 Sons Hostage in Defying Arrest

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A 28-year-old father who grabbed his two small sons as hostages and barricaded himself in a house trailer more than 16 hours was captured today by police. Neither child was hurt.

Charles McLaughlin, employe of a Columbus paper firm, was routed from the trailer at nearby Obetz by a tear-gas assault by sheriff's deputies.

Their fathers arrest ended a night of terror for Charles Ivan McLaughlin, 7, and his 6-year-old brother, Ronald Lee.

Deputies said three shots were fired during their night-long vigil outside the trailer. They said McLaughlin fired at them once when they attempted to advance on the trailer. Two other shots were heard inside the trailer.

McLaughlin grabbed the boys when he learned his wife wanted to have him arrested for assault and battery. During the siege, deputies said McLaughlin yelled at them:

"I got a dirty deal from the law three years ago and I'd get one now. Don't come in—I've got a gun at the kids' heads."

Shortly after daybreak this morning, McLaughlin released one of his sons with this instruction:

"Go get your mother."

The tear - gas barrage followed. Mclaughlin was seized as he staggered blindly from the trailer.

Deputies charged him with assult and battery, assault with a deadly weapon and shooting with intent to wound.

The McLaughlins have one other son, Robert Leon, 5. He was not taken hostage.

Elevator Falls 4 Stories, 2 Women Killed, 5 Hurt

KANSAS CITY (AP)—An elevator, carrying 15 persons, plunged four stories to the bottom of its shaft in a garment manufacturing firm yesterday. Two women were killed and five injured.

A two-ton weight, used as a counter-balance, fell on top of the elevator crushing the car's heavy wire top.

"When we hit the bottom it wasn't too bad a jolt," said Mrs. Sophie Braun, a passenger. "Then I heard a crash and looked around. The top and that big weight were all crushed down on the girls in the corner.

Killed were Mrs. Sophia Jamison, 44, Kansas City, and Mrs. Carolynn Meadows, 42, Liberty, Mo. Both worked for Louis Walter & Co., the garment firm.

No 'Phony War'

Since it has been pointed out by many commentators that the vital point in President Eisenhower's United Nations speech was his promise of immediate and violent retaliation if the United States were attacked, the President's reason for saying it has become important.

His countrymen always had assumed there would be retaliation in the event of attack and had taken it for granted the retaliation would be immediate and violent. They had been told for many years this was the reason for the development of world-ranging bombers and their organization in the Strategic Air Force.

No American needs to be told his government can use military force only in retaliation, this being one of the fixed conditions of popular sovereignty.

No American government which launched an attack could justify itself. It is in the historic record that the United States had to wait for Pearl Harbor though knowing Japan had made the decision to fight. But the United States could not strike the first blow.

Why, then, did the President say what apparently did not need to be said? The answer seems to lie in the nature of atomic warfare.

He does not want the Kremlin to make the error of thinking the United States might be sucked into war by slow degrees, the way Germany eased its intended victims into World War II— the "phony war" that lasted from September, 1939, until the next June.

At the first warlike move, the United States would do everything in its power to blow Russia's key areas into oblivion with all the A-bombs in its arsenal; it would retaliate.

If the Kremlin is more interested in peace than war it can join the United States in a plan to pool a part of the world's atomic resources for peaceful research and thereby show it does not want war.

It continues to be a good bet this will look like a sound idea to the men in the Kremlin when they have had time to think about it.

Scrooge by Any Other Name

British unionists toying with the idea of spoiling their countrymen's Christmas with a railroad strike had better play with something safer.

When one of their own publications, The People, which speaks for the Labor party, refers to the unionists as "Scrooges" for thinking of such a thing, they have been forewarned.

When the public is kicked around by any strong-armed minority, the bully makes himself unpopular. The public can get just as sore about bullies who call themselves labor leaders as it can get about bullies who call themselves something else.

In 1926, British labor leaders made the mistake of calling a general strike which paralyzed England. The immediate result was the British Trade Disputes and Trade Unions Act of 1927. This law did for Britons what the Taft-Hartley Act did for Americans when union strong-arming led to protective legislation 20 years later.

Ever since these laws were passed, unionists in both countries have demanded repeal of the curbs they brought on themselves by their excesses at the expense of the public welfare.

They are about to demonstrate in Britain that the curbs need to be stronger. They will be lucky if they don't succeed in demonstrating the same thing in the United States, with an epidemic of public-punishing strikes already in progress and a Christmas Eve strike against Atlantic shipping in the offing.

Be Patient, Mother

There is no reason for the mother of Richard R. Tenneson, one of the 22 young Americans refusing repatriation in Korea, to condemn herself for her son's behavior.

Her journey to Japan in the hope of appealing to him personally and his letter explaining why this would have been useless have brought into nationwide focus a question asked by many parents in less dramatic circumstances.

Are they responsible for the mistakes of their children?

Tenneson was 17 years old when he was captured in Korea. At that age, most young men are concerned with basketball and school, not ideological battles for men's minds.

He is not the first nor will he be the last to be drawn into the Communist web by tangled reasoning. Many men and women older and better educated have been victims of the same thing — and thousands of these later have turned against their deceivers when they discovered that Communism is only a front for Kremlin-guided despotism which seeks to enslave the world.

The mother of this over-dramatized soldier has nothing to be ashamed of; no one will condemn her for his mistake. If she can be patient — and if her son can survive — his disillusionment can be predicted with complete certainty.

Communism offers nothing but despair to any rational human being who learns the truth about it — whether it happens to be Lavrenti Beria or an uneducated boy from Tennessee.

Foreign Policy Poll

By David Lawrence

Messages Show Serious Diversion of Opinion

They better start analyzing those telegrams and letters in the McCarthy - versus - the administration controversy over foreign policy received recently at the White House.

The analysis may contain an answer as to whether the Republicans will lose control of both houses of Congress in 1954 and also the presidential election in 1956.

It would be worth while for the White House staff to conduct a mail research for it is irrelevant merely to count the telegrams and letters and say, as the White House press secretary did the other day, that the telegrams were "slightly ahead" on the administration side whereas McCarthy was somewhat ahead on the letters.

WHAT MUST BE ascertained basically is how many of the writers of the 50,000 telegrams and letters voted for Stevenson in 1952 and now are ready to switch their allegiance and how many voted for Eisenhower and now either will stay away from the polls or vote Democratic.

A 50,000 sample is big enough as scientific studies have shown. Actually many of the Gallup Polls are based on a sample of only 2,000 per study.

Judging by the information given out it could be assumed that the count showed 52 per cent in favor of the administration and 48 per cent opposed to its policies.

If the breakdown shows that of the Democrats 90 per cent differed with McCarthy and 10 per cent agreed with him it wouldn't be of much avail to the White House from a political viewpoint unless the Republican disaffection were also small.

But if as many as 25 per cent of the Republicans are in disagreement with the President's position on a continuance of trade with Red China then Republican Chairman Leonard Hall may be repeating his classic remark after the Wisconsin election: "We're in trouble."

HOW MANY of those who wrote letters or telegrams dealt with the issue on which they were asked to write? Many newspaper dispatches, for example, failed to make the issues clear.

Secretary Dulles himself garbled to a certain extent the Wisconsin senator's speech by attributing to him something he never said—"Perfumed notes to our allies." McCarthy was talking about our vacillations in dealings with the Communists at Panmunjom.

Here is exactly how the reference to "perfumed notes" arose in Sen. McCarthy's speech:

"On September 12, 1953, the Chinese Communists announced that they would not treat as prisoners of war American fliers who were shot down during the Korean war, over Manchuria. On September 10, 1953, the Army had announced that some 900 American young men known to have been prisoners of the Communists in Korea were still unaccounted for. Unaccounted for, as of tonight, my friends.

"Well why do I bring this situation up tonight in talking about the Republican party? The Republican party did not create this situation, I admit. We inherited it. But we are responsible for the proper handling of this situation as of tonight. And what are we going to do about it? Are we going to continue to send perfumed notes following the style of the Truman-Acheson regime? Or are we going to take the only position that an honorable nation can take — namely that every uniformed American packed the pride and the power of this nation on his shoulders?"

THE WISCONSIN senator's question, moreover, is still unanswered to this day. News has been suppressed about the circumstances surrounding the detention of 900 American boys who still have not been returned despite the fact that the Korean armistice terms stipulated that all prisoners who wanted to come back must be returned. How many of the senders of the letters and telegrams faced that concrete issue when they expressed their views to the White House?

In another section of the same speech, to be sure, Sen. McCarthy denounced the Allied trade with Red China.

Great Britain, for instance, doesn't deny that she exported rubber —a strategic material—to Soviet Russia throughout the Korean war.

Moscow has admitted publicly that Soviet Russia has been sending munitions and war materials to Red China during the Korean War.

The Truman and Eisenhower administrations did not use their maximum influence with the allies to stop that trade.

THAT'S THE McCarthy charge and that's why he and other senators advocate cutting off financial and economic aid to the Allies if they insist on supplying war materials to the enemy in a war in which our own soldiers are engaged.

How many of the senders of the letters and telegrams concerned themselves with that issue?

The barrage of letters and telegrams means that there is a serious division of opinion about a policy of constant "give away" to our Allies without obtaining a faithful adherence by them to the simple proposition of protecting the lives of American soldiers from stabs in the back with weapons made from materials sold by merchants in Allied countries. Any candidate for Congress in either party who wants to test that issue at the polls next autumn need have no doubt as to what the vote would be.

Violets From Paris

By TRUMAN TWILL

My mother-in-law came breezing home from a trip to Europe the other morning with a nosegay of violets she had bought in Paris a few hours before and ever since I've been trying to speed up my ideas of space and time.

Her adventure was no stunt but the fulfillment of a desire to travel in Europe. But then a dolly shilling for a Chicago Travel agency went all the way around the world in 91 hours as a stunt. This made the famous Nellie Bly record of 72 days, 6 hours and 11 minutes seem like something that happened a thousand years ago instead of less than one lifetime.

All of us are involved in the speedup, whether we travel or not. The kind of airplane on which my mother-in-law was whisked back and forth to Europe is already so slow in comparison with jet planes that it is used as a plodding tanker to refuel the faster ships.

As anyone in the strategic Air Command of the U.S. Air Force knows from actual experience, the other side of the world is now only hours away from where you are—and the same holds true on the "other" side.

My mother-in-law spent all but four days of a three-week trip abroad. On two days of the four, she was going to and from the international airport in New York City. On the other two she was flying back and forth across the Atlantic—and they were far from full days at that.

She visited cities in Britain, France, Germany, Switzerland and Italy. With a few exceptions, all her traveling was done in planes. When planning her trip she bought a gadget with a wheel on it to ease along her luggage She didn't take it with her. She never needed it.

The first power vessel to make an Atlantic crossing in less than three weeks was the fabulous Great Western, which whittled down the time to 15 days. That was 125 years ago.

The time for a modern ship is down to 3½ days, which is a trick because it does not include the many hours consumed in getting the ship in and out of its tying-up place.

By plane it soon will be possible to go all the way across the Atlantic, from one international airport to another, between breakfast and lunch.

There is a new time-space concept in which space has ceased to be a barrier surmountable only by time and determination and has become surmountable by the simple act of making a decision. All you do is buy a ticket.

There now is a poor man's "one world" to go with the late Wendell Willkie's flossed - up version—an actual condition of existence in which residents of Wichita can drop in on friends in Bangkok without making any special fuss.

It is not fantastic to think of a civil service employe in Iceland spending a two-week vacation in Sydney, Australia.

The international set is no longer a select crowd of playboys but a busy-bee assortment of human beings from here, there and everywhere—people interested enough in their fellowmen to go look at them in their native habitat.

National Geographic Magazine will quit being something that chair - bound stay - at - homes leaf through with popped eyes and become a slick-paper travel guide that will warn tourist-class travelers not to eat live ants in pepper sauce in Bango-Bango until they have first tasted the superior variety of ants found only in Bingo-Bingo.

That bunch of violets from Paris was beaten up when my mother-in-law got home. But the peacock feather she had carried in her hand from Paris and the wrapping on the Irish whisky she had bought for me in Ireland were in tip-top shape.

The new dimension of time and space is here to stay.

Gems of Wisdom

When we are young, friends are, like everything else, a matter of course. In the old days we know what it means to have them.—Edward Grieg

Carrying a Load

New Designs for Collectivism

By Raymond Moley

President Eisenhower's plan for the control and use of atomic energy suggests one field where an international agreement can be of greatest value. For this property, this source of energy, is too dangerous to civilization to be entrusted to any authority except the government.

Perhaps ultimately private enterprise can share the responsibility, but for the time being here is a spot where nationalization can be justified.

Such dependence upon international agreements in most other fields, however, presents a real and present danger to economic liberty.

THAT DANGER lies in the effort of collectivists in the government, notably in the Department of State, to manipulate international agreements and treaties in a manner which will collectivize our economy.

The patterns of revolution, like the shape of the clouds, are subject to rapid but almost imperceptible change. Twenty years ago, those members of Roosevelt's so-called brain trust who were the more extreme advocates of concentrating power in the government were strong nationalists.

Rex Tugwell, for example used to say that most of the younger, "forward-looking" economists believed in intra- rather than internationalism.

THE SOCIALIZATION of the economy could more easily be accomplished by keeping the gates closed against the influences of international trade and finance. For a wholly different reason I held to a belief in a rather strict nationalism.

Those were the days when Wall Street, dominated by international banking, regarded both Tuwgell nda me as dangerous influences, and free traders like Secretary Hull considered our views in terms unmentionable in polite society.

The great surge toward internationalism which accompanied our participation in the second World War and the confusion attending the proliferation of agencies operating in the foreign field gave all ranges of the left wing, from moderately socialistic people to actual members of the Communist conspiracy, exactly what they needed.

UNDER THE GUISE of fine-sounding international agreements they were able to add one after another restriction on our free economy. Some of the influential people in government during those years, like Alger Hiss and Harry Dexter White, were masters at this technique.

At the present moment some of the top policy people in the government who have been brought in by President Eisenhower are awakening to this danger. Others are still unable to comprehend it.

There is, in fact, a conflict at the moment over an international tin agreement. Other such agreements will follow if that one is adopted.

THE CONTROVERSY over the Bricker Amendment has brought out the fact that the power to make treaties and international agreements opens great holes in the Constitution.

That amendment arose largely because the fears of many lawyers were awakened by the U.N. Covenant on Human Rights. But that is only one of the porposed agreements which are susceptible to the devices of resolutionists.

In his testimony before the Jenner committee, last June, J. Anthony Panuch who, in 1945, served as coordinator in the State Department of the many agencies dumped there after the war, clearly pointed out the danger.

HE SAID among other things: The historic change initiated by our entry into the U.N.O was to place "a large part of our foreign policy on an international basis rather than on the traditional country - to - country or bilateral basis."

The extent to which this shift in the pattern of our foreign policy can move into the domestic field is truly alarming.

We may ultimately be ruled not by the well-known strictures of the Constitution, but by the fine print in a multitude of international agreements.

New Faces for the Asking

By MARK DANA

Medical ethics being what they are in Japan, it is hardly surprising that a Tokyo physician, Fumio Umezawa, is doing a plastic-office business in reshaping the faces of hundreds of Japanese, mostly women.

As he says he has developed a secret liquid which, squirted into facial tissues, can make any shopgirl look like her favorite movie star, word-of-cheek advertising is making him wealthy.

Ordinary liquefied paraffin has been used by some plastic surgeons to fill out hollowed cheeks, thicken lips, turn nondescript noses into more imposing ones, and this may be the Tokyo doctor's secret weapon of pulchritude. Some of our own surgeons have done amazing things with features ruined by burns, injuries or even by Mother Nature in a careless mood.

It is high time, of course, that some clinic were set up to offer everybody new faces for old, and some of our friends somewhat on the plain side should be talking-up this idea.

Not that every man and woman of clock-stopping visage will concede a wish for a new facial deal. Most people go through life blithely content with their original fronts, unconcerned about Hollywood scouts, and the real baby-frighteners seem happiest of all. That is as it should be.

Let Mother Nature become affront by tinkering with her handiwork, and she might make all men beautiful. That would be a horrible revenge.

Marion County History Brevities

By EDNA S. DUTTON

Villages and cities in Marion County were established on roads and turnpikes and later connected by steam and electric roads. The first roads usually followed Indian trails. A much-traveled road in those early days ran from Upper Sandusky, near the present location of Caledonia, then to Mt. Gilead, Fredericktown and Mount Vernon, down Old Creek to White Woman River. This road was an Indian war trail.

Daily Bible Thought

"Fear not, for they that be with us are more than they that be with them."—2 Kings 6:16. God and his infinite hosts are on the side of decency and righteousness. Wrong often triumphs too long, but even Plato said twenty-four hundred years ago, no harm can come to a good man in this life or in the life to come. God has the last word; be patient.

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

What'll You Have, Ice or Ice?

The 20th anniversary of the death of prohibition has just been celebrated. You wouldn't think that in such a short time so many wrongs could develop in the national drinking situation.

Fears that repeal would bring back the old-fashioned saloon have been found farfetched. The saloon used to eject minors, keep its distance from a church or school, maintain a fairly decent atmosphere, provide an element of good cheer and serve a properly prepared cocktail and glass of beer visible to the naked eye. Nothing like that has been seen lately, except on the higher levels of cafe and restaurant operation.

In the place of the saloon we have the kiddy-packed tavern, the package-store-surrounded home, church and school building, the dingy barroom and thousands of bartenders who must have taken an oath never to mix a cocktail the right way.

Never has hard liquor been so available so openly so conspicuously, so carelessly and so expensively in so many places under so little competence. There are, of course, some cafes where standards are maintained, but if you get around the country much you will be flabbergasted to note the sloppy, sleazy, dreary, thoroughly amateur-night conditions engulfing taverns and bars.

The barboy who bothers with an olive in the martini or a cherry in the Manhattan is a rarity. The fellow who used to mix a drink with care, take time for bitters or a slice of lemon peel and show pride in his work is almost obsolete.

There are insecticides that would taste better than the cocktail you get in many places. Not even the ice and water are what they used to be.

The mixologist, who used to maintain a cheerful manner, exude a spirit of welcome, and prepare any drink you wished with the patience of a chemist filling a prescription, is but a memory.

The saloon proprietor who seemed anxious to build up and hold his trade has gone with the wind. He is, if possible, more frozen-faced and indifferent than his bartender. It is easy to get the impression they are both catering to seagulls, not human beings.

The amazing thing is that the decline in hospitality, service, efficiency and mood has come in a period when the cost of drinks has hit the stratosphere.

Before prohibition a man could plank a nickel on the bar, get a glass of beer visible without eyeglasses and secure an atmosphere of friendship and conviviality. Today he can come across with 75 cents for a cocktail and get nothing but a mood of complete indifference, a deep chill and a feeling that he has fallen into an abandoned well.

There is a mood of sorrow and dejection in most saloons. All hands seem steeped in bitterness. Affability is out the window. The customer seems sore becaue he has to pay so much for so little. The barboy seems sore because the joint is still doing business despite his efforts to kill trade.

The proprietor seems sore because of a report a customer is loose in the vicinity who may ask for fruit in an old-fashioned cocktail.

Yes, prohibition is dead and nobody wants it back. (Nobody, it seems, except thousands of tavern and saloon operators and employes who act as if intent on its return.)

Representative Edith Nourse Rogers is leading a fight in Congress to have the income tax exemption for dependents raised from $600 to at least $1,000. You can get an idea how far behind the times Congress is when it clings to the idea a child can eat, have clothes and live indoors on $600 a year.

A widow reported worth about 35 million dollars broke off her engagement to marry Jack Dempsey the other day. Well, 35 million would have meant another long count, and Jack has always been opposed to them.

School Board Forms Council On Curriculum

Employment of two teachers, selection of the high school diplomas and the outlining of plans for the formation of a curriculum coordinating council made up the business when the Marion Board of Education met Monday night in the school administration building.

Farm Groups In South Seek High Supports

CHICAGO (AP) — The American Farm Bureau Federation may have found a way today to allow Southern farmers to have high rigid price supports most of the time within the framework of a flexible price support system.

Delegates from southern cotton and peanut producing states came to the federation's convention being held here this week insisting that present price floors be continued indefinitely for their crops.

Although apparently outnumbered in delegate voting power, the Southern leaders gained much of their demands in resolutions tentatively adopted by a convention policy-drafting committee.

Meanwhile, the policy makers let it be known that the Farm Bureau will not endorse proposed two-price plans for dealing with marketing and price - support problems for major export crops such as cotton, wheat and rice.

A National Agricultural Advisory Committee appointed by President Eisenhower to help Secretary of Agriculture Benson draw up GOP administration farm proposals for Congress is known to look with favor on dual price programs.

The National Grange, a sister farm organization, also endorsed multiple price plans at its recent convention at Burlington, Vt.

Bureau leaders said dual price plans would be interpreted by other countries as "export dumping" with a result that the United States would lose friends abroad.

Under a dual price program, domestically-consumed portions of affected crops would be supported at a relatively high level and the remainder of the supply would be offered in world markets at lower prices.

The average American uses the output of about 7.4 acres to supply his needs compared with less than a quarter acre for a typical Japanese.

Launch Capsizes In Hampton Roads, Navy Counts Noses

NORFOLK, Va. (AP)—The Navy awaited a personnel muster aboard the cruiser Pittsburgh today to establish beyond doubt whether any lives were lost when a 50-foot liberty launch was swamped yesterday in Hampton Roads.

It was uncertain what time the muster could be held, since many of the cruiser's crew were still ashore, prevented from returning to their ship by weather that made the harbor waters choppy and dangerous for small craft.

Upwards of 65 officers and men were aboard the launch when the boat capsized and dumped all hands into the bay.

No bodies were recovered in careful searches by plane and boat. The Navy said officially "there are no known missing." At the same time, a 5th Naval District spokesman said the checkoff list it made left eight crewmen of the Pittsburgh unaccounted for.

Stay of Execution Extended by Court

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio Supreme Court today extended the stay of Russell Muskus, 31, Kankakee, Ill., under sentence of death for a murder in Canton, from Dec. 18 to Feb. 26, for his appeal to the U. S. Supreme Court.

Muskus originally was sentenced to die in Ohio's electric chair Nov. 20 for the first degree murder of George J. LeMasters, 43, New Philadelphia, during a hotel fight in Canton Dec. 2, 1950.

Muskus was indicted with Sandra Lee Kingsley, 25, of Chicago in the slaying. The prosecution charged Sandra lured LeMasters to a room in the Milner Hotel where Muskus robbed and strangled him. She received a life sentence.

The Ohio Supreme Court originally stayed Muskus' execution until Dec. 18 to permit his appeal and granted the extension to Feb. 26 at the request of his attorneys.

City School Psychologist Is Busy Man

Duties Include Handling Testing Program, Talks With Pupils, Parents

The duties of a school psychologist are varied, as Dr. Allen Schmuller can testify.

Dr. Schmuller, who this fall became the city's first full time school psychologist, finds that his newly acquired job takes him not only in and out of the 14 school buildings, but into many of the students' homes.

DR. SCHMULLER'S professional title has more than once been confused with that of a psychiatrist. He is actually classed as a clinical psychologist.

His duties here take him into the homes of Marion's school students in an attempt to help them work out problems which interfere with their school lives.

He also conducts entrance tests for students in the city's classes for handicapped children. Some of his spare time is spent in addressing various civic organizations and recently he was assigned to teach an industrial psychology course sponsored by the Foreman's Club.

He played a part in the recent hearings and investigation of two Marion teenage boys who confessed to a series of 11 breaking and entering charges in the city.

BEFORE THE BREAKING and entering episode, the two juveniles had been referred to Dr. Schmuller through the pupil personnel department and the psychologist had talked with both the boys and their parents. When the youths were captured by city police and turned over to juvenile court, Joe Whisler, director of pupil personnel and the main connection between the court and schools, asked the psychologist and principal of the school, which the boys attended, to testify and present the youths' school records.

Most of his work concerns referrals from teachers. He works with problem cases, confers with the teacher and parents, as well as the student, and attempts to eliminate the problem. His day's work may take him into any number of homes to find the real cause behind a pupils misbehavior. Each time it takes an understanding of how to handle the individual case.

He heads a testing committee and is involved in group and individual tests, such as the mental maturity and achievement tests. He conducts the tests which are required under state law to be given to pupils coming into the special classes for crippled children or sight saving classes.

DR. ALLEN SCHMULLER
Psychologist for Marion Public School System

Dr. Schmuller is Marion's first psychologist to spend full time in that position alone. He succeeded Roger Bishton, who served also as acting director of instruction.

HE IS A NATIVE of Highland Park, Ill., and came to Marion from Salem, W. Va., where he was consulting psychologist for the West Virginia Institute for Girls and acting dean of the psychology and education department at Salem College. In the summer he taught graduate level subjects on the University of Nebraska's program and he was formerly a professor of psychology at Nebraska State Teachers' College, Peru, Neb.

In addition to his teaching experience, he served as psychologist at boys' reformatories at Whittier, Calif., and Annandale, N. J. His education was obtained at the University of Southern California, Harvard, Chicago and Oxford, England, universities. While a psychologist is required to have a Master's degree, the Marion newcomer has a Ph. D. degree.

During World War II, he served for four and a half years with military intelligence. Eighteen months were spent in Europe where he was instrumental in the questioning of prisoners of war. His accomplishments include speaking Italian, German, Russian and Polish.

Eli Whitney Blake who invented the rock crusher was a nephew of Eli Whitney, inventor of the cotton gin and originator of mass production.

Conservancy Funds Tied Up

Judge Orders District Not To Spend Money

The 17-county Scioto-Sandusky Conservancy District, which includes Marion, has been ordered not to spend any of the $12,000 it has left in its operating funds, The Associated Press reported this morning.

The order was issued yesterday by Franklin County Common Pleas Judge Dana F. Reynolds on petition of Prosecutor Frank H. Kearns of Franklin County. Kearns is suing for repayment of the $7,036.55 he says Franklin County loaned the district.

The first loan was made in 1935, shortly after the district was organized, when the member counties were ordered to loan it a total of $16,000 to cover preliminary expenses. That order came from a special conservancy court, composed of one common pleas judge from each of the 17 counties.

The conservancy district has been under litigation since the State Supreme Court ruled last spring that the Scioto-Sandusky district had no right to issue levies without county permission.

The district directors, named as defendants in the suit, are Howard S. Guthery of Marion, Joseph V. Van Meter of Chillicothe and John H. Dunlap Jr. of Williamsport. C. T. Lindbolm of Columbus, treasurer of the district, was also named.

Mrs. Van Buren, who is asking $15,000, alleges she was injured on Dec. 13, 1951, when she slipped and fell on a patch of ice in front of the Penney store here after she had made some purchases in the store.

In a separate action, Mr. Van Buren asks $5,000 for the loss of his wife's services and $388 for medical expenses in caring for his wife.

The Galion Masonic Temple Co. is named a defendant because it owns the building in which the Penney store is located, the petition states.

Her Silent Love

Here's a typical summertime scene—but with a difference. Now he can hear what she's playing.

Makers of the motor shown here claim it's "truly quiet," thanks to a new sound-insulating engineering principle. The result of years of research, the 5½ h.p. Sea-Horse insulates the motor from the boat through a revolutionary suspension system, eliminating noises formerly resulting when motor vibrations were amplified by the hull acting as a sounding board.

Combined with intake mufflers and underwater exhaust which further reduce noise, the new Johnson 5½ operates at a gentle purr.

Normal conversation at full throttle, completely satisfactory portable radio reception, and the gentle slap of ripples on the bow are all audible.

All in all, it's wonderful news for cottagers on American waterways, whether motor users or not.

Around Council's Table

Marion City Council last night adopted a total of 10 pieces of legislation, discussed the threatened strike of bus drivers in the city and numerous other matters and received some petitions.

Prior to the regular meeting, Council members, their wives and invited guests attended a dinner meeting at Hotel Harding. This was in honor of retiring Council members and to welcome three newly-elected members who will begin their council duties in January. [illegible] begin their council duties in January.

No Action on Strike

The question of the threatened strike at the Marion Transit Co. was brought up by Fourth Ward Councilman Louis B. Conkle, utilities committee chairman. He reported he had talked to company officials and they told him they did not know what, if anything, could be done to halt the strike scheduled for midnight Thursday.

Conkle asked if there was anything Council should or could do. Other members voiced the opinion nothing could be done at present.

Robert G. Haldeman, at-large, said both the company and Council have a responsibility to the public to maintain bus service and questioned whether or not the bus drivers do not have a similar responsibility. With no apparent action possible, discussion closed after Conkle said he would ask for a special meeting of Council, if necessary, to take appropriate action in event of a strike.

The bus drivers have threatened to strike unless heaters in the busses are repaired. The company claims it has no money to make the repairs.

Sewer Discussed

A resolution approving plans and specifications for the Jefferson St. sewer was sent back to the sewer committee following a short discussion.

In answer to a question, City Solicitor George Piacentino reported that Reed Ours told him necessary steps are being taken so that the proposed site for a lift station for the sewer may be sold to the city with a clear title. The site, a lot located at E. Fairground and Jefferson St., is owned by Mrs. Fannie Ours.

Councilman Haldeman asked City Engineer Thomas Cathers whether or not the plans and specifications, prepared by Floyd G. Browne and Associates, were all right. Cathers answered the plans were in accordance with what Council had asked for and that Browne and Associates had done "a good job" on them.

Councilman Thomas Clark, at-large, suggested that the plans and specifications be sent to the sewer committee for more detailed study and that a complete report be made at the next Council meeting Dec. 28.

Piacentino suggested that some question has arisen on the matter of assessments regarding the sewers and asked that a meeting of himself, the sewer committee, representatives of property owners to be served by the sewer and Cathers be held to discuss the method of determining assessments and other questions regarding the sewer. No date was set for this meeting.

Hospital Legislation

Four pieces of legislation in connection with the new General Hospital were passed by unanimous votes.

One called for city to appropriate $500 from its general fund to the Hospital Board of Governors to help defray cost of office supplies and other incidentals. A similar appropriation has been asked of the Marion County Commissioners, according to Piacentino. Edwin L. Mitchell, secretary of the Board of Hospital Commissioners, explained that the Board of Governors has no operating funds to maintain records of its meetings between now and the time it actually takes over operation of the new hospital. Its funds will then be derived from the hospital operation.

Another of the new hospital ordinances approved called for appointment of a deputy clerk for the hospital commissioners at a salary not to exceed $100 a month. Miss Irene Tinklepaugh, present administrator of City Hospital, will be employed in this additional capacity. Mitchell explained that this arrangement was set up in order that the Commissioners could call on Miss Tinklepaugh to assist them in selection of equipment and furnishings for the new hospital. He said this was necessary because no administrator may be appointed for the new hospital until such time as the Board of Governors actually assumes control upon its completion.

Another hospital ordinance approved authorized the mayor to enter into a supplemental agreement with the County Commissioners. This is necessary to make legal the sale of a $350,000 supplemental bond issue previously approved by the voters to pay part of the cost of construction. Mitchell said such a contract already exists regarding the sale of the original $1,500,000 bond issue for the hospital.

Final hospital legislation called for approval of action of the Hospital Commissioners to relocate a hole at the Mar-O-Del Golf Course which conflicted with the site of the hospital. This particular legislation was to approve the expenditure of construction funds by the hospital commissioners for this project. Actually the relocation of the golf hole is nearly completed, Mitchell said. The ordinance was approved unanimously.

Land Purchase Bill

Legislation authorizing the mayor to negotiate with the Public Housing Administration for the purchase of some 11 acres of land adjacent to the Veterans Housing Project on W. Fairground St. was unanimously approved. Mayor Robinson explained he asked for this authority only so that he could indicate to the Housing Administration the city is interested in buying the land. Previously the city bought the Veterans Housing Project from the Veterans Administration. At that time, Mayor Robinson said purchase of the project and the adjacent 11 acres would provide for possible future enlargement of Lincoln Park and could be paid for from income derived from the rental of the housing units.

City Auditor Elmer Shaw pointed out last night that there probably will be enough money in the Veterans Housing Fund for the purchase by the time the negotiations are completed.

Icebox Ordinance

An ordinance making it unlawful to leave abandoned ice boxes or refrigerators accessable to children was adopted unanimously. Given a third reading at last night's meeting, the ordinance provides anyone who leaves such devices with airtight doors which may not be opened from the inside within reach of children may be fined up to $50 for each day the violation is committed or permitted to continue. No objections were received to this ordinance, which further provides that such airtight containers must have the door or door lock removed when they are abandoned.

Other Council Action

In other action Council:

1. Unanimously approved an ordinance authorizing membership of the city in the Ohio Municipal League during 1954. The city first joined this organization this year. It has as its purpose the betterment of municipal government in member cities and villages.

2. Approved transfer of a 1948 model tractor from the city service department to the municipal airport in exchange for a payment of $50.

3. Approved installation of a street light on Mark St. between Barnhart St. and Lincoln Ave. by the Ohio Edison Co.

4. Received petitions from residents of S. Seffner Ave. calling for installation of storm water and sanitary sewers and paving of S. Seffner Ave. between Indiana and Mt. Vernon Aves. This was referred to the sewer committee and the streets and alley committee for study and necessary action.

5. Sent a proposed contract with the Eaton Manufacturing Co. for treatment of industrial wastes from its new Marion Forge Division plant to the sewer committee for further study.

6. Set a public hearing on a resolution to approve City Planning Commission approval of a permissive use to convert a residence at 333 N. Prospect St. into a rest home. The property is owned by Frank V. Murphy Sr., Mary Rita Murphy McGlew, and Daniel M., Robert F., and George E. Murphy. The public hearing before Council was scheduled for the Dec. 28 meeting.

7. Received a letter from the Isaly Dairy Co. sent to City Solicitor Piacentino that the company has taken steps to reduce smoke from its plant on E. Center St. Residents in the area complained of the smoke caused by the plant at a previous Council meeting. Residents in other areas of the city also complained of smoke from the Erie Railroad and the Malo junk yard on the west edge of the city. Piacentino said he wrote to the three companies, and the Isaly Co. had replied.

All Councilmen with the exception of Harold Fralich, Sixth Ward, were present for last night's meeting along with the three newly-elected Councilmen, Richard Lister, Ralph Williams, and Warren Diehl. Invocation was given by Rev. Floyd E. Kline, pastor of Forest Lawn Presbyterian Church. Rpresentatives of the League of Women Voters also attended the meeting.

Slippery Roads Boost Total of Auto Accidents

13 Reported in County Three Treated for Injuries; None Serious

Three persons were slightly injured in 13 accidents in Marion County on slippery streets and highways Monday. Two of the injuries and six accidents were reported by state patrolmen from the Marion post, while one injury and seven accidents were investigated by city police.

Alice Best of Findlay received a bruised left hip when her car skidded off the pavement on U. S. Route 23, two and two-tenths miles south of Marion at 10:45 a.m. Monday.

State patrolmen investigating the accident said the car skidded on a slippery spot on the highway and ran into a ditch. The woman was not taken to the hospital. Extensive damage was done to the front end of the car.

At 1:45 p.m., James Champe, 52, of Canton sustained back injuries when the truck-trailer outfit he was driving skidded off State Route 4, four miles north of Marion. The truck went into a ditch, doing extensive damage to the cab.

Champe was taken to Marion City Hospital in a Boyd Funeral Home ambulance, treated and released.

William Mayse, 65, of near Marion was issued a citation to appear in Municipal Court today after an accident at 10:45 a.m., Monday, on State Route 95, almost two miles west of Marion.

Patrol reports show Mayse was driving east in front of a car driven by Myron Fields, 35, of near New Bloomington. Patrolmen charge Mayse failed to signal for a right turn. Their report indicates he pulled to the left of the road, then made a right turn into the path of Fields' car. Light damage was caused to both cars.

Another motorist was arrested after an accident at 12:45 p.m. Monday on U. S. Route 23, just south of the Wyandot-Marion County line. Harvey Lawrence, 63, of near Upper Sandusky was issued a citation to appear Wednesday in Municipal Court to answer a charge of driving to the left of center.

Reports show he stopped on the berm to clean snow off the windshield. When he tried to start again, the wheels of his car could not move forward on the berm. Patrolmen say he was forced to back onto the highway, and in so doing, went across the left side of the road into the path of a car driven by William Schwoenbell, 55, of Marshall, Mich. The two cars collided, causing heavy damage to both cars.

One accident was reported at the post by drivers of the vehicles involved. At 8:30 a.m. Monday, Rudy P. Pursley, 37, of near Caledonia, and Howard I. Hart, 44, of Toledo reported they were involved in an accident on State Route 4, three miles north of Marion.

They said Pursley skidded on the road, went off the right side, slid back onto the road and off the left side. Hart said he was unable to stop in time to avoid striking Pursley's car.

The final accident reported in the county happened at 9 a.m. Monday on route 4, three and one-half miles north of Route 203. The car driven by Virgil Cox, 25, of 1058 Uncapher Ave. was slightly scratched on the trunk lid. Patrol reports show the right wheels of the car went onto the berm, causing the vehicle to skid across the road and brush into a fence.

Boy Struck by Auto

A six-year-old Marion boy was the only person injured yesterday in the seven accidents on the city's icy streets, police reported this morning.

The injured boy was Paul E. Hart, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gail Hart of 1030 N. State St. He was released from Marion City Hospital after being treated for a cut on his chin.

The accident occurred at 11:45 a.m. on N. State St. at Fairview St. Paul was crossing N. State St. from west to east when he was struck by a north-bound car driven by William Clemmons, 59, of 1024 N. State St.

Three Cars Damaged

Three cars were damaged extensively in an accident on N. State St. at E. George St. at 8:59 a.m.

The drivers were Kenneth M. Schultz, 28, of 370 Blaine Ave.; George W. Beechum, 41, of 514 Thompson St.; and George F. Black, 37, of 509 Park St.

Beechum, who was going west on George St., slid into Schultz who was heading north on State St. The force of the collision knocked the car driven by Schultz into Black who was going south on State St.

Wreckers removed all three cars from the scene. Schultz' car was damaged on both sides and the front, Black's on the left front end and Beechum's on the front end.

Other City Accidents

A car driven by Ethel Opal Lutz, of 906 Henry St. was extensively damaged in the front end when it slid into the rear of a car driven by Margaret L. Landon, of near Prospect, at 9:22 a.m. Both cars were east-bound on Bellefontaine Ave. where the accident occurred at the intersection with Windsor St. The Landon car received only minor damage to the rear end.

An accident at 336 Fahey St. at 3 p.m. resulted in minor damage to cars driven by Norman Eugene Fitzwalter, 28, of near Marion, and Catherine M. Frazer, of 242 W. Columbia St.

Catherine Frazer was pulling out of parking space on Fahey St. when she collided with Fitzwalter. The Frazer car was damaged on the left front end, the Fitzwalter car on the right front end.

Cars driven by Fred W. Houk, 34, of 497 Wilson Ave., and Ronald W. Ault, 17, of 844 Congress St., were damaged slightly on the left front ends when they collided at the intersection of Mt. Vernon Ave. and Greenwood St. at 3:37 p.m.

Minor damage was reported in an accident at N. Main and Mill Sts. at 5 p.m. A car driven by Frances J. Jackson, 17, of 297 Silver St. was going south on Main St. when it collided with a car owned by Harry C. Willington Jr. of Richwood which was turning left on Main St. after heading west on Mill St. The Jackson car received damage on the left rear and the Willington on the front.

A car driven by William E. Chesser, 17, of Emerson Ave. was damaged slightly on the right front when it slid into a telephone pole at 502 Park St. at 10:44 a.m.

So far this year, free x-rays have been given to more than 8,000 in the county. The seal sale will continue through December.

U.S. Will Demand Death Penalty for 3 in Toledo Assault

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—Charles Walter Barker, 17, will be tried as an adult on charges he participated in the kidnap-rape of a Toledo girl.

In view of the youths long police record, Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell Jr. approved charging him as an adult. As a juvenile, he could have been imprisoned only until he reached 21.

Police say Barker, Oscar Stapleton, 25, and Early W. Druillard, 21, admitted kidnaping an 18-year-old girl in Bay View Park and driving her to Michigan where they raped her.

Gerald P. Openlander, assistant U. S. attorney, said he would ask the death penalty for all three, under the Lindbergh kidnaping act. They can be tried under the federal law because they crossed a state line.

Marion Residents Offer Help to Stricken Family

Offers of gifts of clothing have been pouring in to Mr. and Mrs. John Robinson whose three-year old daughter, Joyce, died in a fire at their home on Lindberg Ave. late Sunday evening.

The Salvation Army reported today it has received two offers, one from a woman willing to care for one of the surviving children until the family finds a new home, and another from Oakland Dry Cleaners to provide the family with items of clothing.

E. J. Robinson, paternal grandfather of the six other children in the family reported today that numerous friends, neighbors and total strangers have called and offered many items of clothing.

"Everyone has been very kind and we all appreciate it very much," he said.

Now staying with his parents, Mr. and Mrs Robinson and their children are still in need of a place to live and furniture and will appreciate any assistance on these items.

They have not requested assistance from the Marion Chapter of the American Red Cross and Red Cross workers reported today they do not conduct a drive for assistance to families in such cases except when requested to do so by the family.

The fire, which broke out about 9:40 p.m. Sunday in the four room frame home when a kerosene cooking stove apparently exploded, completely destroyed the house, furnishings and clothing of the family. The parents were gone at the time and the seven children ranging from one to nine were alone in the house. All reached safety outside but Joyce reportedly broke away and ran back into the flaming structure for some unknown reason.

Robinson reported yesterday that he had insurance covering most of the loss to the house and furnishings which was estimated at some $3,000 by city firemen.

Weather

and ice has presented no real problem to traffic or the street-cleaning crews.

—:—

ELSEWHERE in the central part of the country, the coldest weather of the season chilled the area. It was 5 degrees below zero in International Falls, Minn., on the Canadian border. Temperatures were in the 20s in parts of Kentucky and Tennessee.

In Marion last night, the mercury dropped to 23. Shortly after 7:30 this morning, it went down to 19 and then by noon had risen to 21 degrees.

The mid-December snowstorm extended as far as southern Kentucky, with Corbin reporting a fall of two inches, according to an Associated Press dispatch. Largest amount was reported at Akron with 5 inches.

A 10-minute electric power failure was caused Monday afternoon at about 2:30 when a car driven by William J. Wilson, 38, of Prospect skidded off the road and struck a power pole owned by the Ohio Edison Co.

STATE PATROLMEN from the Marion post who investigated the accident, report Wilson hit a slippery spot on State Route 203, about two miles south of Route 739. He skidded off the road and hit the pole.

Russell Butterworth of the Ohio Edison Co., said the pole carried two 34,000 volt circuits into the city. The impact of the car caused a supporting arm to break and the wires to fall off insulators and twist around each other.

The entire city was without electricity for about 10 minutes, he said, while an alternate line into town was being switched on. The wires on the pole were not broken, but short circuited when they became twisted.

REPAIRS WERE MADE to the pole, supporting arm, and wires Monday night and the circuit put back into operation. Patrolmen reported heavy damage was done to the car.

A mixup in the telephone service was blamed on the weather by Jack Boyd of the General Telephone Co. He said ice and snow had coated the wires, causing some to break. In other cases, heavily laden tree branches broke off, ripping down wires as they fell.

Adding to the disruption caused by the weather was the extra use made of telephones during the day by persons who stayed at home and used the phones instead of venturing out. He said the output of current was nearly double the normal most of the day.

Shortly after the failure in electrical power, many people trying to contact the Ohio Edison Co. by phone got the number of the Isaly Dairy Co. Boyd said this was caused by the "jumping" of the relay switches in the main switchboard. The number of the Edison Co. is 2-2191, while that of Isaly's is 2-2196. Boyd said the last number jumped from 1 to 6 at the switchboard.

DURING THE electric failure, noise from the switchboard, caused by persons calling the electric company for information, "sounded like a machine gun," he said.

Another auto accident in the county caused further worry for the phone company. State patrolmen reported this morning a car owned by Paul Thomas of Prospect had gone off the road on Route 203, one mile south of Route 739, at about 3 p.m., striking and breaking off a utility pole owned by the telephone company.

Patrol reports are incomplete on the accident. They say whoever was driving the car left the scene of the accident, and patrolmen have been unable to contact the owner so far today.

Boyd said the accident snapped the main feeder cable into Marion, causing a short break in service. However, he added, the company here switched on its emergency generator and restored service in a brief period of time.

He said service to Green Camp, Morral, and Waldo was still under par this morning, because of several different lines having been broken by falling limbs. He expected to have all lines repaired and back in normal operation by noon today.

McCarthy

McCarthy and Pusey are old foes from Wisconsin, where Pusey opposed McCarthy's re-election when he was president of Lawrence College in the senator's home town, Appleton.

After yesterday's public hearing, McCarthy went into closed sessions to hear some Griffiss Air Force Base employes.

The senator later told newsmen he knew of at least 12 employes of the base at Rome, N. Y., who have been suspended as security or loyalty risks. He said his subcommittee staff had talked to them and that they would be questioned in New York this week.

Auto Mishaps In Area Bring Injuries to 3

All Three Are Hurt in Morrow County Crash; Snow and Ice Blamed

Three persons were slightly injured in one of three accidents reported in the Marion area by state patrolmen from the Marion post. Two of the accidents happened in Morrow County, and the third in Delaware County.

Three persons were bruised in an accident in Morrow County at 1:30 p.m. Monday. The accident happened one-half mile south of State Route 19 on U. S. Route 42.

Patrol reports indicate a car driven by John Henry Jr., 22, of East Brady, Pa. struck the rear of one driven by Claude Beatch, 65, of Dayton, as both were southbound.

Henry told patrolmen Beatch went part way into the berm rather than apply his brakes when Beatch slowed down for a car and trailer making a right turn. Henry's car struck the rear end of the Beatch car causing moderate damage to both cars.

Three persons were injured. They were George Chambers, 53, of Foyer, Pa., a passenger in Henry's car; Mrs. Marjorie Beatch, wife of one of the drivers and Beatch. Chambers received a bruised left hand and right knee. Mrs. Beatch suffered a bruised head and Beatch suffered a sprained and bruised right shoulder. None of the injured required treatment.

Henry was arrested and charged with unsafe operation. He was fined $15 and costs by Justice of the Peace R. R. Bennington of Mt. Gilead.

State patrolman Robert Butterworth, 24, was not injured when the patrol car he was driving struck a slippery spot in the road and went into a ditch on State Route 95, a little more than one mile from the Marion - Morrow County line in Morrow County, Monday at 9:15 a.m.

Butterfield reported damage to the right and left rear fenders, trunk lid, and rear glass of his car. He reported the car also struck a fence owned by Roy Gilson of near Edison.

An accident which happened in Delaware county was reported at the patrol post here. The accident happened at 10:45 a.m. on Route 23, three miles north of the Delaware corporation line.

The drivers, who came to the Marion post to report the incident said the car driven by Delnore Goldsmith, 40, of Nevada slowed down to allow a vehicle in front to make a right turn, and was struck in the rear by a car driven by Don Utz of 243 W. Pleasant St. Patrol reports indicate light damage was done to both vehicles.

UMT

omic Energy Committee and a member of the House Armed Services Committee, commented that with the increasing emphasis on atomic weapons "the need for large numbers of men in uniform is considerably lessened."

Cole, who has supported UMT in the past, said he did not think Congress would pass it now and that he might switch his own position.

State Opposition

Rep. Arends (R-Ill), the House GOP whip, said the draft and UMT cannot operate simultaneously.

Rep. Allen (R—Ill), chairman of the key House Rules Committee, said, "I've always been against it and still am."

Sen. Edwin C. Johnson (D—Colo) said, "I'm very much opposed to UMT," adding, "I don't think it can operate with the draft at all."

Sen. Duff (R—Pa), however, said he is "in complete accord" with the commission report. He said it "imposes an obligation upon all citizens of military age, it distributes the burden in a fair way" and makes possible an effective reserve without the expense of big standing forces.

Some lawmakers who have favored UMT were not in Washington. However, others said privately they fear the 1954 session is the wrong time to bring it up. They pointed out that it is an election year and the legislative program already is crowded.

Ask To Check Iniquities

After the Korean truce was signed, President Eisenhower asked the commission to take a look at "inequities" in the method by which military reserves are set up and other manpower problems.

The commission's report made public yesterday was in response to this request.

Commission members who talked with the President yesterday said he did not indicate whether he would include a UMT bill in his 1954 legislative recommendations.

The group recommended that UMT start by January 1955, or earlier, with training of 100,000 18-year-olds for a six-month period.

The trainees would have a 7½-year reserve obligation after their training ends, and would go into the ready reserve, the first to be called up in an emergency.

Council

Reason for the delay of public action on the ordinances was Council's desire to vote on ordinances for increases for each office on an individual rather than package basis.

The proposal, for the increases was submitted by one of the city officials and was studied by the finance committee previously, Quaintance said. He declined to name the official who submitted the proposal.

Council indicated it would further consider the pay raise ordinances for these offices at its next meeting Dec. 28.

Power Station Discussed

Discussion of action of the City Planning Commission permitting the Ohio Edison Co. to erect a power substation in the southeast section of Marion took a major portion of Council's time last night.

The discussion drew forth comments by three attorneys representing various interested parties.

The Planning Commission recently granted Ohio Edison Co. a permissive use permit to erect a power substation on the Laura A. Zachman farm located south of Mt. Vernon Ave. at the rear of the home of John Gries of 999 Mt. Vernon Ave. and to the east of property extending some 700 feet south of Mt. Vernon Ave. owned and occupied by G. A. Dennison of 967 Mt. Vernon Ave.

Attorney Frank Wiedemann, representing Gries, was first to take the floor after a resolution approving the Planning Commission action came before Council.

Claims Loss in Value

He said proposed location of the substation would place it within 150 feet of Gries' residence which would in turn lower the value of the property.

Attorney Riley Hall, representing Dennison, also argued against the location of the substation in that area and said while it is agreed such a substation is needed in the southeast section of the city it should be located somewhere where it will not affect value of nearby properties. He said this area was zoned as residential and should not be opened for industrial use. Both he and Wiedemann asked that Council further consider the matter.

Company's Position

The Ohio Edison Co., represented by Edwin L. Mitchell, said it recognizes there are some disadvantages to the substation location. However, this station is needed to supply power to homes in the southeast section of the city, the company claimed. Mitchell said the company has received several complaints of lack of adequate power in the area and the growth of this section of the city makes it necessary that a substation be located in this area. He went on to explain the company has attempted to purchase other properties unsuccessfully and a portion of the Zachman farm is the only available property to which access may be gained.

He reported there would be no noise and no industrial activity around the substation and that it would be landscaped.

Wiedemann then asked if the company could not purchase property further south and locate the substation there. Mitchell said it could not because there was no way of providing access.

Cites Petitions

Hall then called attention to the fact that 30 property owners in the area had signed petitions asking tha the company not be permitted to erect the substation on the Zachman property.

Asked the reasons for the Planning Commission action, Mayor Robinson said the commission visited the site of the proposed substation then made its decision on the basis of the welfare of all the people the substation would serve.

Company Engineer George Schwab took the floor at this point and said that this location is necessary because of problems of transmission and distribution of electric power. He said this substation would serve an estimated 1,000 persons.

Review Suggested

Councilman-at-large Tom Clark suggested the matter be given consideration by the utilities committee and a complete report and recommendation be made at the next Council meeting Dec. 28. Mitchell reported the company's option to purchase the Zachman property is effective only until Dec. 31.

Councilman Louis Conkle, Fourth Ward, then said it should be made clear Council will take final action approving or rejecting the Planning Commission action at the Dec. 28 meeting.

Tax Rates Approved

A resolution approving action of the Marion County Budget Commission determining the amount and rates of taxes both within and outside the 10-mill limitation for operation of the city was adopted after brief discussion.

In the discussion, Councilman Clark pointed out that of the total tax inside the 10-mill limitation collected in the city, the city gets only a small share for operational expenses. Another 60 cents goes for the police and firemen pension funds.

Total estimated amount operational expenses for the coming year will be the same as for this year, $237,600, he said. Total for the policemen and firemen pension funds is $39,600 or $19,800 each. These amounts are based on assumption there will be a 100 per cent collection of all taxes on a total estimated property valuation of $66 million in the city, he said.

Outside the 10-mills the city receives another $105,600 a year on special tax levies approved by the voters for the sinking fund. This tax rate is $1.60 on each $1,000 property valuation.

In addition to these, property owners in the city are charged special assessments for retirement of various special bond issues for schools, sewage treatment plant, and municipal airport.

Charter

fication for a manager. Neither shall he be appointed because of political connections. His experience and training shall be the only determining factor, the commission members tentatively agreed.

Members of the commission also decided the manager should be a resident of Marion or the immediate vicinity during his time in office.

Duties of Manager

In dealing with the powers and duties of the manager, members decided tentatively he should do the following:

1. Enforce all laws and ordinances of the city.

2. Exercise control over departments created in the charter or by Council.

3. Appoint and remove heads, officers, and employes of any departments over which he has control. He shall do this on the basis of ability alone.

4. He shall attend all meetings of City Council, and shall have the right to enter into discussion there, but no right of vote.

5. He shall recommend measures deemed necessary or desirable or expedient for the city.

6. He shall prepare and present an annual budget and keep Council advised as to the financial condition of the city.

He shall prepare special reports as requested by the Council.

8. He shall perform such other duties as prescribed by the charter, by ordinance, or act of council.

These suggestions will be turned over to a committee headed by Henry Mickley for legal drafting.

Council To Decide Pay

The commission also decided to incorporate a provision letting the City Council prescribe the salary to be paid to the manager.

The question of investigation by the manager, Council, or groups or individuals appointed by them, of any department of the city government, was left open until the future, when the charter takes on a more definite form.

Similarly treated was the question of prohibiting council or any of its committees from exerting political influence in the appointments, dismissals or transfers of employes.

Ideas for most of the proposals Monday night were taken from charters of other cities throughout the state which had adopted the city manager form of government and found it sucessful.

The was the last meeting of the commission until Jan. 4, 1954. The group hopes, at that time, to begin more definite action on the drafts of proposals presented so far, and to solve more of the unsettled problems.

Among those are the question of which officers shall be elected and which appointed by the manager; the qualifications of the officers, and their duties and powers.

Schools

The program, which has been planned for the Christmas Day radio broadcast sponsored by the Marion Power Shovel Co., will close with carol singing by the audience.

On Thursday, the Harding senior and junior choirs, comprised of some 200 voices, will combine for a caroling trip through the halls during the homeroom period and end their program in the middle courtyard of the school.

Manslaughter Hearing Opens

Juvenile Court To Rule On Fatal Traffic Crash

Hearing of a manslaughter charge against 17-year-old JoAnne Gallina of Marion got under way at 10 a.m. today before Juvenile Judge Edward J. Ruzzo.

Miss Gallina was the driver of the automobile involved in a collision Nov. 10 south of Green Camp in which Joyceann Stoner, 16, suffered fatal injuries, and two other high school girls were injured.

Miss Gallina and Miss Stoner were hospitalized at Marion City Hospital where Miss Stoner died the following day.

Miss Gallina was charged by the state highway patrol with driving to the left side of the road, driving without reasonable care for the safety of others, and with excessive speed, as well as manslaughter.

The Juvenile Court hearing will determine whether the case will remain in Juvenile Court or be turned over to the Marion County grand jury which is scheduled to convene next Tuesday.

Robert O. Stout, assistant prosecuting attorney, is state's counsel, and representing Miss Gallina is the law firm of Martin and Hall.

Envoy on Way Home, Wants Red Retraction

TOKYO (AP)—U.S. envoy Arthur H. Dean arrived today en route to Washington after bluntly rejecting a Communist proposal for immediate resumption of negotiations to set up a Korean peace conference.

The State Department envoy who for seven weeks wrangled with the Red diplomats at Panmunjom said he won't return to the conference table unless the Communists retract charges that the United States connived with South Korea to release 27,000 anti-Red war prisoners last June.

Dean broke off the talks Saturday.

A Communist note delivered early Tuesday suggested immediate resumption of negotiations. But an Allied spokesman said the note also repeated "the Red charge of perfidy."

It drew a prompt rejection.

"I shall not be with you . . . at any time until you make an appropriate retraction or correction of this insult in a manner satisfactory to my government," Dean wrote in his reply.

He will leave Wednesday for Washington to report to the State Department and officials of 15 other United Nations which fought in Korea.

reaction. The foreign minister and Premier Joseph Laniel also reported on the recent Big Three talks in Bermuda.

Although no official mention was made of the Dulles statement, French sources said privately that his remarks might reduce still further the chances that the National Assembly would ratify the EDC Treaty.

Italy Also Hit

The secretary's blast also appeared aimed at Italy and Britain. The Italian government has threatened to hold up action on EDC until settlement of its dispute with Yugoslavia over Trieste. Britain has turned down French pleas that she ally herself unreservedly with the pact to prevent German dominance in the organization.

The right-wing Paris newspaper L'Aurore, normally pro-American, described Dulles' statement as "heartbreaking" and accused him of "a complete lack of diplomacy." L'Aurore declared: "France doesn't want to have to take orders from anybody."

In Britain, the Liberal Manchester Guardian commented: "It would be folly simply because of failure to agree immediately on arming Germany, to tear down the defenses which have been built in Europe since 1950. The suicide would be America's as much as Europe's."

Words as Weapons By George Sokolsky

In the struggle for power, everything becomes a weapon—even words. Symbols and ideas, clothed in good or bad words, are planted in the minds of men and women and children. We say 'Nazi" and a thousand images present the man with the funny mustache, the marching batbattalions, the murderous camps, a black page of history. The word, Nazi, is a bad word and will probably always remain bad, like hobgoblin or dragon.

SOKOLSKY

Sometimes the phrase is not so clear. For instance, among intellectuals, "Historical Necessity" is a much debated term. It has, in a manner, been used to replace in their minds the theological term, God. The religious will say that man is guided in life by natural law, the revealed law of God. The Marxist also has a determining factor, "Historical Necessity," by which he explains that which has no explanation in morals, as, for instance, the man-made famine in the Ukraine with its holocaust or the party purges with their whimsical murders. The theologian says, "It is God's will"; the Marxist says, "It is historical necessity." The theologian says that man lives morally by natural law; the Marxist says that man does what he must do because history requires that he do it.

TO A MODERN MIND, the term "Historical Necessity" sounds modern. It sounds as though it really answers some questions while actually it only raises new ones. It satisfies the mind that wants to avoid responsibility for personal or public conduct. It is a way out until challenged.

The term, Marxist, is with some a good word and with others a bad world. Those who follow this new divinity, Karl Marx, believe that he has the answer for everything; those who abhor this secular doctrine look upon it as an obscene disturbance of an orderly system of life that for at least 2,000 years has been of benefit to man. By using the phrase, "Historical Necessity," the Marxists have been able to clothe their ideas in language which many anti - Communists, particularly among those who are engaged in the physical and natural sciences, can accept.

SUCH A WORD as "McCarthyism" works its way into the language. Immediately it becomes a cause to be fought for or against. Sen. McCarthy accepted it as a challenge after the "Daily Worker" thrust the word upon us. As a bad word, it has been made to include more than the personality or conduct of Sen. McCarthy.

I have heard it repeated even by serious - minded persons that McCarthyism means an attack on Protestant churches. The fact is that Dr. J. B. Matthews never testified on this subject before the McCarthy committee

The contention arose over an article in "The American Mercury," written and prepared for publication before Matthews joined the staff of the McCarthy committee.

Nevertheless, it has become associated with McCarthyism. A vast propaganda has been let loose to make McCarthyism a bad word.

ANTI-SEMITISM is a bad word per se . . . It represents a negative concept of life, an opposition to human beings on narrow racial and religoous grounds.

Therefore whatever can be identified as anti - Semitic is bad. This word has been used to separate Jews from good friends.

All Communists must be anti-Semitic because it is essential in Communism that God is a myth, religion an opiate, and any group separate from others on any basis but the class struggle should be suppressed.

In the Soviet Empire, anti - Semitism is practiced as state and party policy.

Moral Rearmament is being fought because it rejects the class struggle and insists that only those who live moral lives can observe life from a moral standpoint.

IN THIS movement, man struggles with himself as Job did; if he can change himself into a morally guided person, he is likely to have a standard for conduct which comes not from the exaltation of man but guidance from God.

Here is a use of words as a weapon for positive living as an individual which differs from class dictatorship in the present phase of the Marxist revolution.

Words as weapons are being used on all sides, like sown seeds. Sometimes they blossom into magnificent beauty; sometimes they grow into weeds that clutter our lives and fill the world with misconception and misery.

"Why do so many men prefer steaks?"

The wife of one of our regular customers asked this question. About the only answer we can offer is this. A fine young corn-fed steer gives us the most flavorful, tender, mouth-watering meat—a good steak. Men like the best of everything so it's easy to see why they order a juicy steak in preference to all other meats. Here we serve the finest steaks in Ohio.

Ample for Unions By Victor Riesel

A small union has taken a giant step in the City of Brotherly Love —a step the giant unions could well follow to make their own labor world safe for democracy. Here's a Philadelphia story which should be told everywhere:

RIESEL

A unique panel of experts has been set up and financed by the AFL Upholsterers Union led by Sal Hoffman to guarantee every member protection against possible unfair treatment inside that union. This board of nationally known labor authorities has been created, in effect, by the union's chiefs to protect the membership against the leadership itself.

The board members, who will meet early next year to select a chairman and set up a modus operandi for the handling of rank-and-file protests, are: Nate Feinsinger of the University of Wisconsin; Paul Herzog, ex-National Labor Relations Board chairman; Judge Curtis Bok of the Philadelphia Court of Common Pleas; Joseph B. Lohman, of Chicago, one of the nation's top criminologists; the Reverends Leo C. Brown, of St. Louis, and Jerome Comey, a great waterfront priest from Philadelphia, and Professor Archibald Cox of Harvard.

ONCE THE BOARD begins sitting, any member with any legitimate interest in any intra-union case will be able to appear before the panel—not just those who are accused or those who bring charges. . .

For the first time in almost a decade, Father Coughlin of Detroit made a public speech. Now 62 years old, the priest, whose first parish in the area had thousands of auto workers, heartily endorsed the guaranteed annual wage for all mass production workers. . .

Almost 500 million dollars worth of opium has been smuggled and sold by the Sovietized Chinese dope trust in Japan and other Asiatic countries to finance anti-American propaganda and the infiltration of oriental unions. These labor units can be the balance of power in some lands there and actually are a sharp threat to our defense position in Japan.

The half billion dollar figure is based on a report from the AFLs roving representative in Asia, Dick Deverall. He revealed the other day that the Chinese had smuggled over 600,000 pounds of opium. Experts say that this opium when watered down would sell for such a huge sum. . .

SEN. IVES' newest strategy for heaving the Taft-Hartley law feud out of next year's congressional campaign, calls for an early meeting of Republican and conservative Democratic congressmen who have enough votes to push through any law.

They would meet quietly someplace in Washington.

They would agree on a few amendments giving the AFL Construction Trades Unions the changes they want (union contracts without elections before actual construction swings under way, etc.)

They would revise the non-Communist affidavit section which would eliminate union filing of these forms—or have industrialists file them too.

THEN IVES would arrive in the Senate some morning and swiftly introduce the new bills. Someone would hit the House about the same time. Then they would jam the revisions through in one day—and the President would sign it. And it would be out of the way.

Except for one detail. A few labor leaders and industrialists have heard of the secret strategy. Their friends in Congress will be waiting.

The friends of labor will hit it because it doesn't go far enough. The friends of management will say it goes too far. . . It won't go any place. Taft-Hartley will remain a campaign issue. . .

If the head of the U. S. Steel Corp. and the head of the CIO Steelworkers are making accurate predictions on their tour of the big U. S. Steel plants, there will not be any depression. U. S. Steel chief Ben Fairless is saying that the steel industry, a sensitive, economic weathervane, won't be off more than 10 per cent for the early part of 1954.

EMPLOYMENT is still just below a record-breaking 62,000,000 workers—and factory workers are earning close to the record levels.

Despite the falling off of overtime, the average industrial wage is at $71.73 a week, just 20 cents below the all-time record set last March. . .

The bitterness between President Eisenhower and Sen. McCarthy is now deeply personal. Not too long ago, the senator was among a group of White House visitors posing for some pictures of the session. Just as the President was about to step before the camera, he called an aide aside and insisted that McCarthy be moved from the shot so there'd be no picture of the two of them. . .

HARDLY NOTICED by political and labor circles is a White House maneuver which has given the President strong labor contacts despite the boycott by virtually all national AFL and CIO chiefs.

Close to Ike now is Guy L. Brown, chief of the influential Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, who is publicly criticizing other labor leaders for attacking the President. Brown won Ike's approval by coming out against Industry-wide wage negotiations "to avoid the national crises of the past. . ."

Honesty's Burden By Laura Hobson

"Finders keepers" is a simple old rule, but I've just been talking to a young man who knows it's hard to make it stick if a $10,000 bracelet is involved.

"I wish I'd never found it," he said, and it wasn't too hard to draw him out as to why.

His name is Barry Bond, he's 26, and on Columbus Day, 1952, he picked up a diamond bracelet in the Normandie Picture Theater in New York, where he was assistant manager. The bracelet was an inch wide, with the famous name of Cartier on it, and though he couldn't case its value, it was a dizzying sight.

WHEN IT WAS turned over to the 18th Precinct police, the official receipt said if it weren't claimed in 90 days, it would become his property—but who'd ever believe a $10,000 bracelet, as it proved to be, would just lie around unclaimed?

Even after 90 days, the police couldn't believe it, so they held it another 90 days, and then an extra 30 on top of that.

Finally what must have seemed like seven interminable months came to an end and young Mr. Bond could practically taste diamonds.

THEN CAME tough news. The day before he was to receive it, the theater's owner, David Weinstock, had filed legal claim to it, stating that anything found on his premises belonged to him.

"I started suit the next day," Mr. Bond said, "and then some more time dragged by. Finally, fourteen months after I found it, we settled out of court. We were going to sell the bracelet and split the proceeds."

"Fifty-fifty?"

"I'd rather not say," he said.

"But it was better than that for me."

"Something like 60-40?"

"Something."

"Well, that's pretty good," I pointed out."

-:-

IT TURNED out it wasn't—because new legalities have sprung up, preventing any action at all. An insurance company now thinks the bracelet might be one they paid out on long months back; new investigations are under way, and exactly everything is at a standstill.

"All I've got out of it so far," Barry Bond ended bitterly, "is a lost job, nothing but odds and ends of work ever since, an all my savings gone for expenses."

There was a long pause. "They say honesty's the best policy, but I sure wish I'd never laid eyes on the thing."

AFTERWARDS, I couldn't help contrasting this lost and found episode with a lot pleasanter one about a ring lost in America by Edwin J. Snyder, 60, and found over 3,000 miles away by a Mr. F. Huysbrachts in Belgium.

Mr. Huysbrachts recently opened a crate from the Ford factory in Chester, Pa., and was startled by the twinkle of gold. The letter he sent when he shipped back the ring tells the story:

"We had the surprise," he wrote, "to find in box 2891 of lot 169, a 10-carat gold ring with a diamond in it, and as we think it may have some value for the man who lost it, we are mailing it."

Maybe in Belgium there are no proberbs about "finders keepers" and "possession is eleven points of the law." And what the Belgian equivalent for "bravo" is, I'm not linguist enough to know, but I hope telepathy works even without translation.

Many Are Optimistic

Businessmen Differ on Outlook for '54

BY SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—Business next year will be better than in 1953. That's far from the general view. But it's the way a sizable number of businessmen are talking today.

Some are talking about their particular industry, some about their own firm. A few refer only to the first part of the year, others to the last part. But clearly some lines of business believe they'll march to new heights in the new year.

Many important segments of the economy are prepared for a slip next year. The majority now seems agreed that the 1954 tally for business and industry in general may not equal the 1953 record.

But here is what some—who believe they are exceptions to the rule—are saying:

Take the auto industry. Output sights for the industry as a whole have been lowered. But the makers of both Chevrolets and Fords say they will produce more cars in the next three months than they did in the similar 1953 period, when they were still under various controls.

Suppliers of the auto industry or the motorist are also cheerful. Auto parts replacement business is sure to increase in 1954, says one maker, J. D. Wright, president of Thompson Products Inc. of Cleveland.

Gross volume of business by the 379,000 automotive service establishments in the United States should rise 30 per cent next year, in the opinion of C. A. Benoit, Jr., president of Permatex Chemical Co. of Brooklyn.

The tire replacement business should have a banner year in 1954, says William O'Neil, president of the General Tire & Rubber Co.

The Mobile Homes Manufacturers Assn. expects 200,000 more trailers to be sold next year.

Manufacturers of road making machinery look for a dip in business the first of the year but expect sales to pick up at the close to a level greater than in 1953.

A glut of gasoline and fuel oil plagues the industry right now. But demand for oil products should go up by five per cent next year, many believe, and help ease the problem.

The coal industry is worried now, too, But the National Coal Assn. believes output in the next three months will top the first quarter of 1953.

Fraternity Men To Pay In Blood at Pennsylvania

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Fraternity men at the University of Pennsylvania start paying their fines in blood today.

The Inter-Fraternity Council decided that when fines are assessed against member fraternities for violating council rules, the fines can be paid off at the rate of one pint of blood for each $5 fine

Half the blood will go to the Red Cross blood bank. The other half will go for 17-year-old Eddie Fox of Orrtanna, Pa., in Adams County. Eddie was badly burned in a futile attempt to save a younger brother from burning to death in a fire 3½ years ago. He still needs at least two blood transfusions a week at University Hospital here.

One Way To Chop Expenses

Heel's Guide for a Cut-Rate Christmas

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—What are you doing to cut down Christmas costs?

Some people complain, "I no longer can tell the difference between Christmas and bankruptcy."

They have let this festive season get out of hand. But there is no reason why you can't enjoy a fine Christmas at minimum expense if you show a little ingenuity. You may also have to act like a heel, but everybody else will be so full of the milk of human kindness they will overlook it. And think of the money you'll save.

So here is a heel's guide to a cut-rate Christmas:

You probably still have last year's Christmas cards. So mail them back to the people who sent them to you, and enclose a note saying:

"I received so much pleasure from looking at your Christmas card in 1953 I am unable to deny you the same joy in 1954. May it make the new year happy for you."

Could anyone object to that?

Now, what about presents for your friends? Do something different. Why not get your wife to collect some old vests—every closet has a few—cut holes all over them, and embroider the holes with green and red yarn? Then mail each vest to a friend with this letter:

"May the enclosed Christmas-tree-warmer keep your sweet little tree snug and cozy on the coldest night. Be careful not to bruise its tender little branches when you button the warmer around it."

Why, people will be talking for days—after getting a present like that—about how thoughtful and sentimental you were to think of a way to keep their Christmas tree from catching pneumonia.

Your wife, of course, can't be overlooked. One way to please her is to pick out a luxurious bathrobe one size smaller than a circus tent, charge it, and bring it home. When she finds it doesn't fit, she will take it back to the store after Christmas. But by then you will be hollering so loud about bills she won't have the heart to exchange it for something else. Meanwhile, you did give it to her, didn't you?

Almost everybody has two aunts he has to send a Christmas gift to. You can cut this item in half by buying a pair of gloves and mailing one glove in a box to each aunt. Don't worry. They won't blame you.

There is also the problem of what to do about all your nieces and nephews. A simple solution is to send each a letter containing a dollar bill, and a note:

"I am sendin gyou this $10 because I think you probably would like to pick out something for yourself, and anyway I know you could use a little money at Christmas."

The kids will look at the buck and murmur sadly:

"Poor old uncle, he is getting so near-sighted lately."

The question of Christmas tips is easily solved. Just tell all the folks who usually hold their palms out at this time of year, "Gee, no Santa Claus for me. I just got my two weeks' notice at the office." They not only won't look for tips. Some might even offer to lend you money. If they do, take it. You can pay them back later, if it doesn't slip your mind, and it will make them feel good to think they have lightened your load.

Christmas Day presents the final hurdle—how to get you and your wife a free meal. Simple. You just go to a neighbor on Christmas morning, admire his tree, and remark that a strange dog leaped through the window, grabbed up your Christmas turkey, and bounded out again.

"Why don't you and your missus try potlock with us?" your neighbor will ask sympathetically. Don't grab at his offer. See what he's got on the menu first. If it isn't satisfactory, go on to another neighbor with your hard luck tale. There is no need for eating a second-rate meal even on a cut-rate Christmas.

If you follow these rules, you'll find that you've had a fine, mellow, merry Christmas at the lowest possible expense.

"After all," you can tell yourself, "it isn't how much you spend that's really important — it's the spirit of the thing."

EPHRAIM, Utah (AP)—Wally Durfee reported yesterday a hoot owl got intfo a coop of 4,000 10-week-old New Hampshire chickens. He found the owl still flying back and forth, trying to get out, the next morning.

As he untangled the mass of chickens piled up in a corner he counted 1,537 of them dead. He estimated the loss at $1,350.

Irish Cagers in Home Opener Tonight

St. Wendelin Squad Slated In First Game at Coliseum

St. Mary's Irish, who dropped their first game of the season last week, opens its home season tonight at the Coliseum against Fostoria St. Wendelin. It will mark the first game of the season on the Coliseum floor which has been laid over the ice for the first time.

Tonight's game is one of two this week for the locals. Coach Ray Robbins' squad takes on Tiffin Calvert Saturday night at the Coliseum.

Ray said today his starting lineup would probably have sharpshooting Mike Anderson, 5-11 Roger Micheli, 5-10, and Butch Merchant, 5-7, playing on the outside with Larry Ryan, 5-10½, and Jack O'Keeffe, 5-10½, playing the double pivot.

He also hinted that Jerry Ballenger, John Messenger and Pat O'Connor would see action.

The locals were "brushed up on a lot of mistakes" in yesterday's practice session, the only one since the Mt. Gilead game. Ray's annoucement that he would probably play Ballenger, Messenger and O'Connor tonight indicated he was searching for a clicking combination.

St. Mary looked ragged in spots in the winning opener against Carey and last week bad passing in the fading minutes of the Mt. Gilead game cost it its second win of the season.

The visitors bring a 2-3 mark here after spliting a pair of weekend clashes. Friday, the Mohawks dropped Genoa 49-41 but on Sunday, they were downed by Sandusky St. Marys 89-60. In previous action, the Mohawks had defeated Norwalk St. Paul while losing to Rising Sun and Van Buren.

Indications are that for the first time this season, the locals won't be troubled by a height advantage. The small visitors have a well balanced offensive attack with no single big gun.

Dick Walters, center for the visitor, is their tallest man. He reaches the six foot mark. Other starters are likely to be Dave Kelbley and Torres at forwards, and Francis Nye and Bob Hoover at guards.

Walters, only experienced player on the Fostoria team, dropped in 12 points and Torres 10 in the loss to Sandusky. In the Genoa game, Torres and Hoover took over scoring honors with 13 points apiece. Kelbley and Nye each added seven Coach Ken Herman lost practically his entire team with the graduation of Jim Krupp last season. The 5-11 forward was instrumental in the Mohawks' successfull season last year, dropping in 588 points in 20 games.

He almost single handily defeated the locals. Krupp notched 41 points as his team dropped the rish 64-46. The visitors here Saturday night, Tiffin Calvert, also downed the locals by a lop-sided margin, 83-69, last season.

The locals will be after their second win of the season. St. Mary opened with a 55-50 over Carey but then lost to Mt. Gilead in a Mid-Ohio Conference game, 53-51, last week.

Anderson and Micheli have been the big guns for the licals thus far. Red-headed Anderson, last year's scoring ace, has 40 points while Micheli has 29. Ryan has added 10, O'Keeffe and Merchant each nine, and Ballenger seven.

St. Mary's reserves will be after their second win in the preliminary contest after winning last weeks encounter with Mt. Gilead.

St. Mary officials announced today that drawings for the basketball carnival here Dec. 28 and 29 would be held Wednesday at 7 p.m. in the residential suite of Hotel Harding. The locals and Radnor, Lexington and Elm Valley are the participating teams.

Detroit's Kuenn Named Rookie Of Year in AL

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Harvey Kuenn, Detroit Tiger shortstop and onetime "bonus baby" who probably cut his first tooth on a baseball bat, is the American League's Rookie of the Year.

The brilliant but modest youngster, a native Milwaukeean, wasn't so sure he deserved the honor when told last night he had been picked by 23 of the 24 members of the Most Valuable Players Committee of the Baseball Writers Assn.

"I almost thought it was a gag some of the boys were pulling on me . . . But I'll do everything I can to live up to everyone's expectations," he said.

Kuenn, who might consider the award a belated birthday gift—he turned 23 a few days ago—has been pretty good at living up to expectations ever since Harvey Sr. put a tiny bat in his hands when the lad could hardly walk.

Between that day and this there's a long list of sports accomplishments and records shattered in baseball, basketball and football, capped by a sensational debut with Detroit this year.

The Tigers were in last place when they parted with a reported $55,000 bonus to outbid 10 other clubs for the University of Wisconsin baseball star in June 1952. He went up to Davenport of the Three-I League and Detroit brought him up at the end of the 1952 season. His 1953 record includes:

A fielding percentage of .975 based on only 21 errors in 77 chances.

A batting average of .308, sixth in the league among players with 400 or more times at bat.

Being the first player in the league to hit 200 safeties. (His total of 209 was highest for both leagues.)

Setting an American League record for times at bat—679.

Hitting 33 doubles, seven triples and two homers.

Kuenn has been rated higher as a hitter than a fielder, but he was second only to the Browns Bill Hunter in total chances. Hunter had 821 to Kuen's 770.

Whitfield, Wes Santee Facing Probe by AAU

NEW YORK (AP) — The brilliant track careers of Mal Whitfield, the world's top half-miler, and Wes Santee, America's fastest miler, were threatened today by an Amateur Athletic Union investigation.

The probe, growing out of an European tour by an American track team last summer, was disclosed last night by Dan Ferris, AAU secretary, who said it concerned alleged violations of the amateur rules by the pair.

If the charges are proved, Ferris said, both runners could be barred for life.

They are not under any form of suspension at the present "because right now the evidence is too thin," Ferris said. He added however, the charges — under investigation for nearly four months—had barred either man from consideration for the Sullivan Award, the AAUs highest honor to an amateur athlete.

Both Whitfield and Santee were omitted when the list of eight athletes eligible for the coveted award was announced last month at the AAU convention in Washington. This was despite the fact Whitfield had been nominated by the Metropolitan New York AAU for the award.

In addition, Whitfield broke two records during the summer and three last winter in the indoor campaign. And Santee's 4:2.4 mile at the Compton, Calif., relays last June was the fastest ever by an American.

Santee said last night after Ferris' disclosure that after their return from Europe both he and Whitfield had "spent quite a bit of time talking those things over with Dan Ferris, and I felt then that he was satisfied."

In Los Angeles Whitfield denied he had injured his amateur standing during the European tour. He said he had never accepted any prizes except those approved by AAU officials. Whitfield said he and Santee both felt Ferris was satisfied with the situation after their long talk with him.

Ferris said the alleged violation of rules by Whitfield took place in Sweden and that he believed charges against Santee developed out of Germany.

SHORT SPORTS

By John Short

During the recent Harding High School football awards program, Bill Hamor of the Harding Boosters Club urged the club members and other persons at the program not to cease their support of the teams since football play had ended.

SHORT

He promised the club, which has been one of the busiest outfits in the city for the past two years, would do all in its power to help the basketball, track, baseball and other athletic groups at Harding.

It took only a short while for fans to find he meant just that. The Harding cage team took the floor at the start of the season in new red and white uniforms complete with bright red warm-up jackets. Friday night the Boosters completed the revamping. The Prexies came out with red and white knee socks first time in recent years the Harding team has broken away from the standard white woolen socks.

TOWERS' TOUR. Ambrose Towers, sharpshooting star from the Columbus basketball scene, has started his swing through Marion County early this season.

He usually can be found in tournament action here around the middle of the season but is taking part in the YMCA Invitational and Saturday night he played at Green Camp against the Marion County coaches. He is one of the most popular players to appear from out of town.

'Brose,' a former All-Ohio selection from Columbus East's state championship squad, is a member of four teams in four different leagues in Columbus. Four nights a week he spends in league action with the weekends being used for out-of-town bookings.

His teammates report he uses his free evenings for 'practice' sessions.

Jim Tatum Named Top Coach in Poll

NEW YORK (AP) — Jim Tatum, football coach at the University of Maryland, was named today as the 1953 Coach of the Year in a nationwide poll of college coaches, conducted by Scripps Howard Newspapers.

Tatum, whose Terrapins were ranked as the top team in the country in the final Associated Press football poll, was an overwhelming selection in the 19th annual voting.

Of the 599 coaches casting ballots, 151 chose Tatum. Only members of the American Football Coaches Assn. are eligible to vote.

Runner-up to Tatum was Henry (Red) Sanders of UCLA with 111 votes. Forest Evashevski of Iowa finished third with 168 votes, followed by Notre Dame's Frank Leahy with 34.

Ray Eliot of Illinois was fifth, Ralph Jordan of Auburn sixth, George Munger of Penn seventh, Ivy Williamson of Wisconsin eighth, Earl Blaik of Army ninth and Art Lewis of West Virginia and Paul Bryant of Kentucky tied for 10th.

Budge Back in Action

NEW YORK (AP)—Don Budge, tennis idol of the 1930s, is going to take a vacation from his laundry business to return to big-time professional tennis.

Budge, now 38, will join Jack Kramer's troupe for a tour starting Jan. 3 in Madison Square Garden. Frank Sedgman, Pancho Gonzales, Pancho Segura and Kramer are the other players, although Kramer figures to save himself for doubles only.

Brownies Open Sale of Tickets For Title Game

CLEVELAND (AP) — Cleveland's Browns started selling championship game tickets today—but only to holders of season books.

The tickets, at $5 each, will be sold at the Browns' office until Thursday. Any left then will go on public sale Monday.

No mail, telephone or telegraph orders will be accepted, the club said, pointing out it had only a limited number of seats for the game which will be played Dec. 27 against the Lions at Detroit.

The same two clubs met for the National Football League championship last year, but there will be 19 different faces around this time, 10 for the Lions, who topped the Western Division, and nine for the Browns, who headed the Eastern Division.

And looking forward to next season, Coach Paul Brown announced he had signed Bob Langas, an end who played with the Fort Belvoir Army team this year. Langas, who stands 6-foot-4-inches and weighs 225 pounds, once played for Wayne University.

UNIFORM FEELING

FORDYCE, Ark. (AP)—The Fordyce High School football team literally played its pants off this season — but they've got some new ones now. Former grid aces of Fordyce, taking note of the worn condition of the togs, made up a team of their own and played the 1953 squad in a benefit game. Proceeds went for the new uniforms.

Roberts, Spahn Notch Leading Pitching Marks

NEW YORK (AP)—Warren Spahn and Robin Roberts, the National League's top pitchers last season with 23 victories apiece, finished one-two in the earned run ratings with the Milwaukee southpaw officially winning the title today for the second time.

Spahn, who dropped only seven games, gave up only 62 earned runs in 266 innings for an ERA of 2.10, the lowest figure since Howie Pollet's same mark in 1946. Spahn also had the circuit's best earned run average in 1947, 2.33.

The official pitching averages released today by the league's service bureau also disclosed that Roberts, ace of the Philadelphia Phillies staff, posted a 2.75 average, on 106 earned runs in 347 frames He lost 16 games.

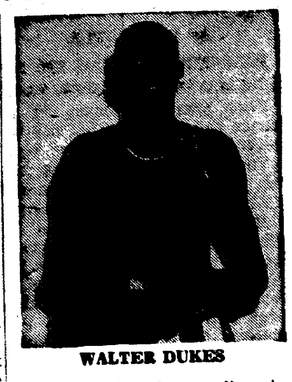
Statistics compiled by the Associated Press and released last October also listed Spahn as the league's earned run leader at 2.10 and Roberts the runner-up with 2.75.

Bob Buhl, Milwaukee's rookie right-hander, finished third with 2.98. He allowed 51 earned runs in 154 innings, while winning 13 and dropping 8.

Lefty Harvey Haddix of the St. Louis Cardinals was fourth with 3.06, followed by Milwaukee's Johnny Antonelli, 3.19, Curt Simmons of Philadelphia, 3.21; and Lew Burdette of the Braves, 3.24.

An earned run is one in which a fielding error plays no part Runs resulting from hit batters, wild pitches and balks are scored as earned.

Walter Dukes Appears Friday On Harlem Globetrotters Card



WALTER DUKES

Although he had to bid high to obtain the services of Walter Dukes, owner Abe Saperstein of the Harlem Globetrotters figures that the $25,000 per year contract he gave the United States' top collegiate player of last season is a good investment that will insure the Trotters continued success for many years.

The seven foot Dukes, who will be seen in action at the Coliseum Friday night when the Globetrotters appear in the feature game of a basketball doubleheader now gives the Trotters some height which has been their only need in recent seasons.

Dukes was one of the finest collegiate players developd in the United States during the past decade while leading Seton Hall University's teams to many honors in the last three season. His coach at the South Orange, N. J. school was John "Honey" Russell, himself a premier player of the Original New York Celtics, one of the great pro clubs in the history of basketball.

Dukes shattered every existing scoring record at Seton Hall which annually turns out clubs that rank with the country's best. In three years of varsity competition, he averaged better than 20 points per game and during 1952-1953, he was named to every All-American team as he averaged 26.3 points per game and connected on 48 per cent of his shots.

Last winter he led Seton Hall to the championship of the National Invitational Tournament at Madison Square Garden in New York where he was selected as the tourney's most valuable player. Dukes is also a fine rebounder, ranking among the top five in the United States in this department for the past three years.

Although basketball kept him fairly busy at school, Dukes was also a fine student and he is planning to continue his education at some graduate school where he hopes to secure his law degree. As a matter of fact, he wasn't eyeing pro basketball too seriously until Saperstein and the New York Knickerbockers started throwing fabulous contract figures at him.

Olympic Star Whips Wagner For 9th in Row

BROOKLYN (AP) — Undefeated Floyd Patterson had his ninth straight victory today and a probable Jan. 25 date with Yvon Durelle, Canadian middleweight and light heavyweight champion.

The Olympic 165-pound champion from Brooklyn scored his most impressive success — and seventh kayo—since turning pro 15 months ago by topping flabby Dick Wagner in 2:29 of the fifth round of a scheduled eight at Eastern Parkway Arena last night.

The fast-punching, hard-hitting Negro youngster floored his 27-year-old rival three times before Referee George Walsh halted the one-sided fray.

Hymn Singing Father Indicted In Slaying of 4

STEUBENVILLE, Ohio (AP) — Hymn-singing Frank Holt goes into court Thursday to be arraigned on a charge he murdered four of his children by bludgeoning them with a crowbar.

Jefferson County officials said he probably would be given mental tests at Lima State Hospital after he is arraigned before Judge Arthur L. Hooper.

The grand jury indicted Holt yesterday on first degree murder charges.

The unemployed miner, who told sheriff's deputies he killed the youngsters to "save them from the tortures and torments of the devil," has been singing hymns and praying in jail since his arrest.

Bernard T. McCann, the county prosecutor, described Holt a "religious fanatic."

Holt's fifth child, who was also beaten at their home at nearby East Springfield, remains in serious condition at the Ohio Valley Hospital.

Lions Club Eye Research Chief Talks to Group

Edward R. Steese, chairman of the Ohio Lions Eye Research Project, was the main speaker at the meeting of the Marion Lions Club Monday at Hotel Harding. He spoke on the eye research plan of the Lions Clubs in Ohio.

Steese said Ohio Lions are helping care for 11,000 cases of blindness. They are also financing a research project with the cooperation of the laboratories of Ohio State University, University of Cincinnati, and Western Reserve University.

Contributions to this project are made voluntarily by local clubs and individual members. Steese is past president of the Wellston Lions Club.

It was announced at the meeting that the club members will supervise the playing of music from the courthouse during the Christmas season.

Jackson Betts of Findlay, congressman for the eighth district, will be the speaker at next Monday's meeting.

Jack Burdette was a guest at the meeting. t

Ex-Tennis Star Freed In Drunk Driving Case

DALLAS (AP)—Former tennis star Wayne Sabin, 37, went on trial yesterday on driving-while-intoxicated charges. The first witnesses, City Patrolmen M. L. Morgan and F. R. Pettus, were asked to identify the defendant. They didn't.

They pointed to one of his lawyers; Jack Johannes. Johannes and Sabin had traded chairs but not, said Johannes, with any intent to confuse anyone.

County Criminal Court Judge Joe B. Brown dismissed the charges against Sabin, a member of the 1937 and 1938 Davis Cup team and now tennis professional at two Dallas clubs.

"I'm sorry it happened,' Johannes said. "We had a good defense, which we didn't get to present."

SANTA and the FLYING PUP

By LUCRECE HUDGINS BEALE

AP Newsfeatures

The secret of flying, Santa tells Willie the pup, lies in being able to do an unselfish deed. So Willie takes bones, carrot tops and fruit skins from Santa's garbage can and puts them in front of Patrick Tweedleknees' doorway instead of eating them himself. That, thinks Willie, is truly an unselfish deed.

CHAPTER 12

Patrick Tweedleknees was in a rage.

"This — this — this dog!" he screamed to Santa. "This dog has put garbage all over my front porch."

Santa was disturbed. He said "Willie, why would you do such a thing to Patrick Tweedleknees?"

"I did it so that I could fly," said Willie eagerly. "Watch!" He gave a running leap into the air but instead of soaring away he flopped back to earth with a whack.

"I don't understand," Whimpered Willie. "I gave all that stuff away and never kept a taste for myself. That was a great and unselfish deed. Why can't I fly"

Santa couldn't help laughing. "Tweedleknees doesn't want the garbage, Willie. You didn't do anything for him."

"I should say not!" chimed in Tweedleknees. "And you'll please to clean away that mess at once.

—:—

POOR WILLIE. He was left in disgrace to clean up Tweedleknees' porch. It wasn't so hard a job because he simply ate most of it. But his pride had been hurt. He felt that perhaps he was not good enough even to stay in Santa Land much less learn to fly.

Just then his friends, Mr. Not Much and Mr. Very Little, scurried up.

"Imagine!" cried Mr. Not Much in great excitement. "There is a dragon running round and round one of the buildings!"

"A dragon like a snake!" added Mr. Very Little. "Breathing smoke and sparks!"

"He rattles his shell!" puffed Mr. Not Much.

"And there is no one in the building to stop him," they both screamed. "Come we must run away as fast as we can!"

Willie was frightened. He turned to run. But right away he stopped. "If I can stop that dragon, it will surely be a glorious and unselfish deed," he thought. "Then I could fly! Everyone will agree that I deserve to fly for such an act!"

He Gazed In Astonishment At the Furor He Had Created.

BRAVELY he turned back to the building the Dreamlins had fled. On the door was a sign saying "Train Shop" but Willie did not stop to read. He was terrified by the hissing and puffing and rattling of some strange creature in the shop.

Quivering, Willie crept inside. There was no worker to be seen. But there were hundreds of snakes. The snakes were on tracks which circled the whole building. The tracks wound in and out of tunnels, over bridges and under mountains.

But of all the gleaming snakes lined up on the tracks, only one was alive.

It was going round and round a small circle of track, puffing smoke from its nose, rattling its sides, and throwing off sparks from its feet.

Willie's eyes rolled with fright. Nevertheless he leaped toward the fearful creature.

He landed in the center of the ring of tracks—directly on top of the main switch box of the Train Shop. Alas! instead of halting one snake Willie had brought all the others to life!

HE GAZED in astonishment at the furor he had created. Hundreds of dragons hurled themselves round and round the shop covering Willie with sparks, blinding him with smoke, deafening him with whistles and the rattling of tracks.

Desperately Willie pushed and pulled at the switches but the uproar only worsened.

"The whole of Santa Land will be destroyed!" thought Willie in a panic.

At this moment he noticed a draw bridge on the tracks. Quickly he raised the bridge with his mouth and jumped out of the way.

The first snake tore down the track, leaped into the open space and crashed to the floor. The second snake followed. And the third.

In no time at all every singl dragon lay crumpled and silent on the floor.

Santa Land had been saved by Willie the pup.

Soil Conservation District Banquet Scheduled Jan. 7

Plans for an annual meeting to be held Jan. 7 were discussed at a recent meeting of the board of supervisors of the Marion County Soil Conservation District held at the district office on S. State St.

Scheduled as the principal speaker for the annual meeting is C. L. Blackman, extension dairyman at Ohio State University. Slated to be recognized at the meeting are participants in the 'Green Acres" program.

A fish fry for cooperators and guests of the conservation district will start the evening's program at 6 p.m. in the Eagles Hall. This will be followed by the business session scheduled to start at 8 p.m.

An election of two supervisors, to fill the expiring three-year terms of H. H. Beringer and Carl F. Seiter, will be conducted during the business meeting.

A local quartet, "The Buckeye Four," will furnish music for the program.

In other action at the supervisor's meeting Thursday, conservation plans of five county farms were approved. They were farms of L. B. Parish of Montgomery Township, Arthur P. Isler of Waldo Township, Henry Wenig of Grand Prairie Township, and Erwin Porter and Herbert McNeil of Green Camp Township.

It was reported that Oscar J. Retterer of 223 Elm St., associated with conservation work for 18 years, has been transferred to the local district office from Mt. Gilead. He replaces Frank C. Wilson who resigned last week.

Reports of district activities were made by W. L. Williams and E. E. Weaver, local conservation agents.

Hope Dimming On Talks With Balking POWs

Prisoners Turn Down Appeal From NNRC Head; Deadline Nears

PANMUNJOM (AP)—Allied efforts to win back American war prisoners who stayed with the Communists remained stalled today as the POWs spurned a personal appeal from the chairman of the Korean repetriation commission to attend interviews.

There was mounting speculation that none of the 22 Americans and 1 Briton would appear for explanations before the 90-day period for interviews expires Dec. 23.

Talks with Leaders

Lt. Gen. K. S. Thimayya talked for 90 minutes with two prisoners identified as leaders in the compound—U.S. Sgt. R. G. Corden of East Providence, R. I., and British Marine Andrew Condron.

An Indian spokesman said the two leaders were unmoved after their private conference with Thimayya in a Korean hut outside the barbed wire compound where they are held by the repatriation commission.

The POW spokesmen said the Americans and Briton would not come out for face-to-face talks with American explainers until the Neutral Nations Repatriation Commission settled a dispute with pro-Communist South Korean prisoners who also refuse to attend explanations.

Says Reasons Absurd

Thimayya said earlier he personally felt the Americans simply did not want to attend the explanations. He called some of their reasons for stalling the interviews absurd.

Thimayya speculated that the new turn of events might end all chance that the American would attend any explanations.

The U.N. Command said today it was ready to interview any prisoner of any nationality who would come out tomorrow.

The U.N. move left it squarely up to the prisoners. Although it is officially a request to the Indian command, the Indians normally defer to the wishes of the prisoners.

The U.N. Command has indicated it would renew its request every day.

30 Postoffice 'Extras' Hired

Workers Employed To Help With Rush

The Marion postoffice today employed 30 extra workers to help out during the Christmas rush season, Postmaster Homer D. Cole reported this morning.

Fifteen of the extra workers are on the mail routes and delivery trucks, while the remainder are working in the postoffice building.

Cole said that more additional workers will be taken on every day this week.

Mailings at the postoffice increased yesterday but not as much as was expected by local postal authorities. Yesterday's snow and bad weather kept the mailings down.

He expects heavy Christmas mailing to begin Wednesday.

McCarran Not To Attend Quiz

Withdraws Request On Seeing Gouzenko

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. McCarran (D-Nev) said today he has withdrawn his request to sit in on the questioning by Senate investigators of Igor Gouzenko, former Soviet code clerk who tipped authorities off to the Red spy ring in Canada in 1945.

McCarran, senior Democrat on the Senate internal security subcommittee, said he had discussed with Chairman Jenner (R-Ind) the possibility of his accompanying Jenner, a committee investigator and court reporter to Canada to interview Gouzenko.

"Sen. Jenner said they had had a great deal of difficulty in arranging for the interview through the State Department and I didn't want to add to these difficulties by insisting that I accompany them," McCarran said.

The Nevada senator said he thinks Gouzenko may provide the committee with some valuable leads to Communists still operating inside the U. S. government.

Jenner has indicated the subcommittee wants to question Gouzenko about a man it previously identified as "Mr. X," a member of Adm. Erenest J. King's staff when he was U. S. fleet commander in chief during the last war.

Dr. Arthur G. Steinberg, a geneticist attached to a Boston hospital, has said he is "Mr. X" and has denied any Communist affiliations or that he ever gave any secret information to anyone.

N.Y. Stock Quotations

NEW YORK (AP)—Prices slipped today in the stock market on diminishing volume.

The softness extended to around a point at the most in key areas. A stiffening in the list appeared here and there as scattered plus signs put in an appearance.

Many issues seemed to ignore good corporate news and prefer to hold steady.

Stocks getting ahead included Santa Fe, Consolidated Natural Gas, Liggett & Myers, General Motors, and Montgomery Ward.

Losing ground were Southern Pacific, Cities Service, American Telephone, Phelps Dodge, American Tobacco, Bethlehem Steel, and United Aircraft.

Supreme Court Will View, Rule on Controversial Film

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Supreme Court yesterday agreed to review Ohio censors ban on the movie "M" and agreed to see the film at a private showing.

The Ohio Supreme Court April 29 refused the request of Superior Films, Inc., Hollywood, Calif., to vacate Ohio's ban of the picture "M". The Ohio Division of Film Censorship rejected the film as "harmful."

The division acted because of what it termed the sympathetic portrayal of the actions and emotions of a child-killing pervert. The company contended the ban violated its constitutional right of freedom of speech, but the State Supreme Court in a 5-2 decision upheld constitutionality of the states film censorship laws and said the ban did not violate them.

Group To Discuss Seaway With Ike

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Ferguson (R—Mich) said today President Eisenhower will meet with a group of Midwest businessmen, farm leaders and Congress members tomorrow to discuss the proposed St. Lawrence Seaway.

"We want to talk to the President about further steps in our effort to make U.S. participation in the seaway a reality instead of just a proposal," Ferguson said in a statement.

Ferguson said the group meeting with the President will include himself, E. T. Weir, chairman of the board of National Steel Corp., Pittsburgh; J. L. Mauthe, president, Youngstown Sheet and Tube Co., Youngstown; W. W. Sebald, president, Armco Steel Corp., Middletown, Ohio; Charles White, president, Republic Steel Corp., Cleveland; James Black, Republic Steel Corp., Washington, D. C.

Complaint Dismissed Against N.Y. Publisher

WASHINGTON (AP)—In line with its new policy toward use of the word "free" in advertising, the Federal Trade Commission today dismissed a complaint against Doubleday & Co., Inc., of New York.

Last September the commission said it will proceed against use of the term "free" only where the circumstances tend to mislead or deceive the public.

Doubleday had been cited for using "free" and "bonus books" in connection with its operation of several book club plans. The now-dismissed complaint had charged the books offered weren't really "free" because persons getting them had to buy at least four other books.
